DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS WITH GERMANY SEVERED

United States Stands To Defend National Rights

President Wilson, After Due Deliberation, Directs Passports Be Returned to Ambassador Von Bernstorff and Orders All Diplomatic Officers In Germany To Return to This Country

COUNTRY PREPARED FOR EMERGENCIES

Officials Are Awake to All Dangers and Are Prepared to Meet the Crisis Presented In Germany's Answer to President's Senate Address On World Peace

Washington, Feb. 3.—After two years of diplomatic negotiations marked with frequent crises and attended with a loss of more than two hundred American lives on the high seas, the United States broke off relations with Germany today, and at two o'clock this afternoon, Ambassador von Bernstorff was handed his passports.

All American consuls in Germany were ordered home, and all German consuls in this country are expected to be withdrawn, making a severance of the relations complete.

A demand was sent to Berlin for the immediate release of sixty four Americans taken by German raiders and held as prisoners.

American affairs in Germany will be turned over to the Spanish ambassador. The Swiss ambassador takes over German interests here.

Ever since relations with Germany became acute, there have been ominous signs of threatened activity of German sympathizers and disloyal Americans, if diplomatic relations were severed, which was accentuated today, by an attempt to sink the torpedo boat Jacob Jones, at Philadelphia. The mate's helper, who is held responsible, was placed in irons.

The government is prepared to meet all such emergencies.

Measures of national preparedness were taken at least two years ago, and the war and navy department make it unnecessary for them to do otherwise than to have the plans begun immediately.

A survey of merchant crafts under the American flag and small pleasure craft power boats is virtually completed.

Guns for arming American merchantmen have been assembled in various navy yards and plans for the structure work necessary to putting the guns aboard have already been worked out. The part each boat will play in naval mobilization has also been worked out.

For the army and navy an inventory of the manufacturing industries and resources of the country has been carried well forward, each plant having been listed for the best use of producing war munitions.

The council of national defense has already taken charge of the co-ordination of the industries for war purposes. Additions will be made to the regular army and the National Guard.

The war and navy departments are full of gossip. Navy officers will not say what plans are contemplated, but state that the fleet is in a desirable situation.

The view is expressed that in the event of war, three million men will be called for the army.

Secretary Daniels has asked congress for authority, if necessary, to commandeer private plants to facilitate the building of ships and the manufacture of ammunition.

Steps to strengthen the federal statutes for prosecuting offenses against the United States, in furtherance of the interests of foreign governments, have been taken by congress.

Freedom to Depart.

Americans in Germany and Germans in America will be granted absolute freedom to depart, and every effort will be made to remove all Americans possible from Germany.

Unofficial reports indicate that there are three thousand Americans in Germany, but the latest statement from the state department is to the effect that there are perhaps a thousand less. Of these the majority are German-Americans who probably will prefer to remain.

In Austria it is estimated there are two hundred native and several thousand naturalized Americans.

Funds will be provided before Ambassador Gerard leaves, for the relief of destitute Americans in Germany.

No more American passports to Germany will be issued.

Advises Neutrals to Follow.

Washington, Feb. 3.—It is reported tonight, in diplomatic quarters, but unconfirmed by American official sources, that President Wilson is advising neutrals of his action in severing relations with Germany, and has advised them to follow his course.

Diplomatic Structure Crumbles.

Washington, Feb. 3.—The entire diplomatic structure to protect two million prisoners and the whole conquered nation of Belgium, to represent the interests of four nations in Germany and German interests in nine enemy countries, crumbled today, before German necessity.

The Beligan Minister Havenith called at the state department in the greatest anxiety at the latest blow to Belgium. Belgian relief ships will continue to run for the present and every attempt will be made to secure immunity from German attack.

STORY OF THE BREAK

Washington, Feb. 3.—The story of how the president decided to break relations with Germany became known tonight.

The first news of the German note, announcing the abandonment of restrictions of submarine warfare was conveyed to the president with undisguised amazement. He thought Tumulty must be mistaken, but within a had actually been delivered to the state department.

He determined that a decision, made immediately, would be hasty, and based more on emotion than judgment.

That night he conferred with none except Secretary Lansing.

Yesterday the hasty judgment suf-

ARE ACTING WITH VIGOR

Government Officials Take Immediate Steps to Defend the Country

Washington, Feb. 3.—Safeguarding the naval stations, army posts arsenals and other service property constituted the military measures taken by the government tonight, following the break with Germany.

It was made clear that there is no desire to take warlike measures unless compelled to do so by some warlike act of Germany.

The White House grounds, navy yards, stations, state, war and navy buildings were all closed to visitors and cards of identification are required for admittance.

The fleet continues to maneuver in the Guantanamo region.

Seize German Vessels

Philadelphia, Feb. 3.—The German auxiliary cruisers Kron Prinz Wilhelm and Prinz Eitel Frederich, interned at the Philadelphia navy yard, were seized by order of the navy department, to night, and the crews were imprisoned in the isolation barracks.

One At Boston

Boston, Feb. 3.—The United States marshall took possession of the German Lloyd liner Kronzprinzession Cecile, interned here, tonight.

The Kronprinzessin Cecelie is found to be crippled beyond the possibility of early usefulness, according to an official, who assisted in the seizure.

The boilers are said to have been cleared of all water while the fires were burning at capacity and countless valves of the engine room were multilated or removed.

N. Y. Guards Ordered Out

New York, Feb. 3.—The entire National Guard of New York state and all naval militia were ordered out, tonight, by Governor Whitman, after a conference with Major General O'Ryan.

General O'Ryan directed the guard to every arsenal, armory and watershed and the naval militia will protect the bridges.

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 3.—Batteries at Fort Wool, Hampton Roads, were manned, tonight, by artillerymen from Fortress Monroe, and strangers were all barred from the military reservation.

Took Four in the Zone

Panama, Feb. 3.—Four Hamburg-American liners in Cristobel harbor, were seized by the Canal Zone authorities, tonight and harbor traffic was stopped.

Guarding the White House

Washington, Feb. 3.—Additional guards were thrown about the White House grounds, today, after the President's speech to congress.

The gates were promptly closed to the grounds and extra police were stationed to prevent anyone entering.

Those having business in the executive mansion passed through a special gate after a satisfying the policemen on duty of their identity.

The congressional Union of Women Suffrage announced that they would continue to picket the White House.

NEW LINES FOR SPRING GOWNS

Chicago, Feb. 3. — Thirty girl models are "rolling" and "pulling in" these days in preparation for the semi-annual style show which will open Monday evening at the Strand theater under the auspices of the Chicago Garment Manufacturers' Association. The efforts on the part of the models are made necessary by the new lines of the spring gowns and suits, which have lost all the billowiness and width of former days and are making toward the vertical.

This is to be a great year for sport clothes, too, according to the prediction of the manufacturers. Suits of vividly checked, figured and striped pongees and rajah silks will be seen everywhere besides on the grounds of the country club.

ARRANGING FOR BERNSTORFF'S DEPARTURE

Washington, Feb. 3.—Having received passports for himself, family and suite Count Bernstorff is tonight awaiting his departure to be arranged by the Swiss minister. The Austrian Ambassador Tarnowski, who has not yet been presented with credentials, denied himself to callers tonight.

NO INAUGRATION CEREMONIES

Washington, Feb. 3.—Owing to today's events the decided sentiment in official quarters is to abandon the public inauguration on March 5 and simply have the president take the oath of office in the White House on Sunday, March 4.

COURSE IS APPROVED

Leaders in Congress Regardless of Politics Support the President

Washington, Feb. 3.—Leaders regardless of political connections, freely expressed approval of the president's course and address.

Senator Stone, chairman of the foreign relations committee said:

"I think there are two things that we should do as far as possible. Keep our heads level and our mouths closed."

Speaker Clark said:

"I do not think there will be any war, I do not think the Germans will blow up any of our ships."

Republican Leader Mann said:

"I do not see how the president can do any less, and am very glad he did not propose to do any more."

Senator Kern, democratic leader said:

"I believe the American people are behind the president, to a man. Congress is now certainly a business congress awaiting developments."

Senator Gallinger, republican leader, said:

"Of course, if Germany sinks American ships or takes American lives, we shall fight, but we should view the situation calmly, dispassionately and hopefully. The president's message is admirable."

Democratic Leader Kitchin said:

"I do not believe the president could have said or done less and am gratified that he did not do more. He has given Germany the last clear chance to avoid conflict with the United States."

Senator Cummins, republican, said:

"I entirely approve the president's course."

Senator Weeks, republican, regarded the president's address as the best he has ever made.

Representative Flood, chairman of the house foreign affairs committee, believed that the president's course was wise and he believes that the president has the approval of the country. He said, "The president was wise not to do more at this time."

TENSION FELT IN SHIPPING

Anxiety Felt For the Safety of Vessels Now In the War Zone

New York, Feb 3.—Indication of the tension felt here in shipping circles was shown tonight by the announcement that the American line steamship St. Louis which was scheduled to sail tomorrow, would not leave before noon Monday at the earliest.

Sailings Prohibited

Washington, Feb. 3.—Sailings of American merchant vessels have been prohibited in the war zone. The state department officially said today that this has become a military matter.

The department expresess the informal belief that it will be wiser to postpone sailings for the present.

Whether the government will arm ships or convoy them is yet to be decided. The material for such armament is ready at various navy yards.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT PLEDGES HIS SUPPORT

Oyster Bay, Feb. 3.—Theodore Roosevelt tonight pledged his support to the president and offered the services of his four sons in the event of hostilities.

NEWSPAPER MEN

Washington, Feb. 3.—Two Washington newspaper men, J. Fred Essary, head of the Baltimore Sun bureau, and W. W. Price, of the Washington Star, admitted at the "leak" inquiry that they supplied the advance forecasts of the president's peace note, of December 21st, which eventually reached E. F. Sutton & Company, New York brokers.

The pessimist's only idea of trying to kill time is to put it out of its misery.

GERMAN SUBMARINE SANK AN AMERICAN STEAMER

London, Feb. 3.—A German submarine sank the American steamer Housatanic today.

The Housatanic was sunk near the Scilly Islands, whether with or without warning is unconfirmed. All officers and members of the crew were saved.

Sailed From Galveston.

Galveston, Feb. 3.—The Housatanic was formerly the Hamburg-American liner Georgia, and sailed from this port carrying a cargo of about fifty thousand bushels of wheat and had a crew of fifteen Americans.

A change of registry was granted the Housatanic in 1915. She has been laid up once since the beginning of the war at New Orleans.

The vessel was bought by the Housatanic Steamship Company for eighty five thousand dollars. She was of 3,143 tons gross, and was built at Glasgow in 1890. She was two hundred and thirty two feet long, forty feet wide and twenty deep.

Will Investigate Sinking.

Washington, Feb. 3.—The news of the sinking of the Housatanic was received here, but state department officials pointed out that it would depend entirely upon circumstances whether the incident would affect the present situation.

WAR CERTAIN SAYS COLONEL WATTERSON

In An Able Interview Great Editor Gives His Views On the Crisis

War between Germany and the United States is inevitable, according to the view of Colonel Henry Watterson, editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, who is spending the winter in Miami. He was seen at his residence last night and requested to make a statement relative to the situation arising from the German note on unrestricted submarine warfare and the consequent break of diplomatic relations between Germany and the United States.

"I do not need to tell The Herald," said Mr. Watterson, when one of The Herald reporters read him the latest dispatches, "that the news, startling as it is, does not take me by surprise. I have long known that the Germans, driven back upon their last resort, were getting ready for this final venture and in your issue of 1st of Jan. with some detail did actually forecast it. The Herald itself has kept up with the procession and made no mistake. I have not seen anywhere more intelligent comment upon foreign affairs and events, so that its readers must likewise be fully abreast with the situation. It is ominous indeed."

"You think it bodes war with Germany?" the reporter asked.

"I can see no other way round it, or out of it," Mr. Watterson replied. "It is hardly possible that we escape some dreadful sea tragedy. Another Lusitania would set the country on fire. We shall have at once to look to our shipping and our ports of entry. To be sure we are woefully unprepared. But, if driven to war we are not wholly without the means of helping to break up and destroy the powerful U-boat fleet the Germans have turned loose upon the world, and it does not seem possible that, formidable as that fleet is, it, or the force behind it, can hold out very long. The kaiser is on his last legs. The Berlin Military Junta, Hindenburg and Mackensen at its head, realize the crisis. They have not the resources for another spring and summer campaign and hope to win, or lose it all, by one wild, desperate rush in total disregard of obligations and consequences. Whom the Gods mean to destroy they first make mad."

"You think," put in the reporter, "it is all over with the Germans?"

"With the kaiser," Mr. Watterson quickly interposed," not the Germans. With autocracy. With the divine right of kings. With the Hohenzollerns and the Hapsburgs—to hell with them. Surely not with the German people. They are a brave ingenious, home-loving people. Dynastic interest and their devotion to the state have lured them into war for a phantom. Betrayed, deceived and beaten they will come out of it to face realities stern and hard to bear but not impossible, or dishonoring. They will find themselves as we poor people of the south found ourselves after the war of sections. We too had been lured into war upon a phantom, the phantom of slavery. Our rights in the territories were as illusory as Germany's coveted place in the sun. But, though completely impoverished, we completely recovered, and today we are better off than ever

CARL FISHER A PERMANENT RESIDENT HERE

Will Make Miami His Home and Indianapolis Will Be Summer Residence

Carl G. Fisher's official and legal address hereafter is to be Miami, Florida.

Yesterday Mr. Fisher stated that he has decided to become a full-fledged, voting citizen of Miami and that he and his family will spend the greater part of their time here.

In reply to queries by a representative of The Herald, Mr. Fisher said:

"Yes, I have decided to make Miami my residence and we expect to spend most of our time here. I have had this in mind for several years but it was only recently that I could arrange my business affairs up north so as to make the change.

"While I still retain a summer place in Indianapolis and have business connections there, I feel that my largest interests are here, and from the standpoint of a home I hope I may spend the rest of my life here at Miami.

For years before I ever saw Miami I wanted to live on the sea shore and in a climate that was both mild and healthful and when I found this old Key I realized my ambition. Of course it needed dressing up and it has taken a lot of work to make it livable. There is still a good deal to be done but I think any one who has been over here this winter will agree that there are few, if any, more beautiful spots in which to live. I know of none that offers greater possibilities. A few years ago some of my northern friends were inclined to be skeptical over the outlook for my undertaking over here on the Beach, but those who have seen it recently have been forced to agree that the future of our undertaking is now assured.

"The last few years has shown a wonderful development all over Florida, and nowhere has this been more noticeable than at Miami. Nature was certainly generous with us down here. All that has been needed was a little courage and foresight in developing what Nature gave us. I expect to see Miami in a very few years as large and prosperous as Los Angeles. We have everything that they have and much that they never can have."

NEW YORK WORLD ON NATIONAL CRISIS

New York, Feb. 3.—The New York World will, tomorrow, say editorially: "The United States is now on the verge of war with Germany, but the American people can face the crisis without fear and without reproach. The national conscience is clear.

"In all the records of history there will be found no other example of a great and powerful nation exerting such effort and making such sacrifices to keep the peace as the United States has done in the course of its relations with Germany since August, 1914."

Reports From Orange Belt Show Considerable Damage By Friday's Frost

(Special to The Herald.)

Tampa, Feb. 3.—The temperature record at Tampa this morning was twenty-six.

The damage to tender vegetation is heavy but the citrus trees are not much hurt, merely tender growth being killed. The fruit for the most part is uninjured.

Lake county reports heavy damage to cabbage crops. Celery slightly damaged.

Manatee county reports damage only to tender vegetation. Plant City reports a low temperature of twenty with tender vegetables killed and the strawberry crop set back several weeks.

Middle Florida was hard hit, but counties south of Tampa escaped with slight loss save tomatoes and the like.

DAMAGED SLIGHT IN ORLANDO

(Special to The Herald.)

Orlando, Fla., Feb. 3.—Freeze damage slight in this county with a low temperature of twenty-one.

Nursery trees bitten and vegetables were nipped, but much of the crop on trees escaped. Extent of damage done is hard to arrive at for the reason that opinion differs.

Several days will be required to ascertain amount of citrus crop injured. New growth and early bloom was killed. Eighty per cent of the crop in this section had been marketed.

Oldest growers say not one per cent of remaining crop injured.

Apprehension is felt for tonight. The temperature is thirty-four and is gradually falling.

GROWERS OPTIMISTIC

(Special to The Herald)

Lakeland, Fla., Feb. 3.—A minimum temperature of twenty-four, last night destroyed considerable truck and, probably, fifty per cent of fruit on the trees.

The trees are not seriously injured and it is believed later bloom will yield a fair crop.

Strawberry shipments will last for two weeks, but better prices will result All vegetable crops can be replanted in time for products to command best prices.

Damage in general not regarded serious, and growers are optimistic.

TITUSVILLE SECTION HIT

(Special to The Herald)

Titusville, Fla., Feb. 3.—On the result of the cold, today, situation of tracts, played important part to citrus trees.

Reports from Indian River City indicate total loss of fruit and all truck; trees about seventy-five per cent; young tres except, where banked and fifteen per cent of old trees.

Mims section was not hurt badly. They will loose leaves and bloom. About ninety per cent crop was gathered, not ever ten per cent fruit left, and was frozen. Where groves were fired, seventy-five per cent of fruit was saved that would unquestionably have been lost.

Damage tonight expected to be greater on account of a lack of wood and labor.

Temperature six degrees colder than last night at the same hour but there is a prospect of warming up by changing of the wind.

PROFOUND IMPRESSION

London, Feb. 3.—The American rupture with Germany has created the deepest impression here of any event since the first days of the war in August of 1914.

There were no crowds around the newspaper offices nor any exhibitions of excitement, as in those days, because the London public is hardened to sensations.

British officials recognize that the situation has drawbacks as well as advantages for British interests, and great anxiety is felt for the welfare of British prisoners and the fate of Belgians deprived of succor by the American Relief Commission.

It is the universal feeling here that the United States will inevitably be forced into war and the part she will play is the chief topic of discussion.

Efforts are being made to increase the tobacco industry in Ireland, which has soil that is said to be suitable for almost all varieties of leaf.

PUGILISTIC NEWS IN THE SPORT WORLD

Kilbane and Mitchell to Fight In Cleveland Next Thursday

By Ringside.

Chicago, Feb. 3.—In so far as knights of the padded mitt are concerned, interest this week centers in the ten-round clash between Johnny Kilbane, cock o' the walk in the featherweight division and Ritchie Mitchell, the sensational Milwaukee lightweight, scheduled for Cleveland Thursday. Originally the first was to have been held January 30, but Mitchell injured his hand in training and obtained a postponment of a week.

Mitchell already holds two popular verdicts over Kilbane, earned at Cincinnati and Milwaukee. Kilbane, in consenting to a weight of 133 pounds at four o'clock, is giving Mitchell about ten pounds the best of it, and this fact alone stamps him as truly as game a boy as ever stepped out of his class in order to fight. Johnny has done it before and got away with it in bouts with Joe Mandot and Benny Leonard, but he may find Mitchell a much tougher proposition.

In their previous encounter at Milwaukee Mitchell was up against an unknown proposition, and for six rounds he was exceedingly careful. Johnny Dundee had bested him a few weeks before and he didn't know just how fast to travel against a man with Kilbane's two-fisted reputation.

By the seventh round he had gained confidence, however, and he cut loose with his left. Kilbane was bleeding from the nose, mouth and one eye at the finish. The Cincinnati match virtually was a repetition of the first go. Mitchell in those days was light enough to do 130 pounds at 3 o'clock and in the coming fight he will have a greater advantage.

So it bodes ill for Kilbane, speed and two fists notwithstanding, in his efforts to get revenge for those two trimmings.

Kilbane has visions of a fifteen-round decision affair with Welsh for the lightweight title if he can hurdle Mitchell this time. It promises to be one grand picnic.

Mitchell, unless he yields to the lure of the movies, will have two more fights of consequence within the next few weeks. One is a twenty-round affair with Joe Rivers at New Orleans on February 16 and the other is a bout with Benny Leonard in New York. But the movies may win. The film promoters want Ritchie to do the hero act in a couple of thrillers. But if he accepts they insist that he do not fight for three months after the Kilbane go.

Now that George Knockout Brown, the demon Greek, has squashed Bob Moha again he is looking for further trouble, and he is eying Billy Miske and Battling Levinsky. The battler trimmed Brown last summer, and the Greek is hankering for revenge. The same goes for Miske, who hung it onto Brown in a ten-round affair after Brown had made things more than interesting for the St. Paul battler during the first half.

"This Brown is one of the toughest birds I ever tackled," said Miske on the eve of the Brown-Moha go at Racine the other night. "He had me beat for the first five rounds, then I caught him flush on the jaw with my right. It was one of the big disappointments of my life when he didn't go down. He staggered around a little and was dazed, so that I evened up things and led from then on."

Back of it all, however, lurks the possibility that Brown will be given a crack at Les Darcy. Tommy Walsh is willing to give the Australian $7,500 if he will take on the Greek at Racine.

That amount may look small in comparison to all the big offers which Darcy is reported to have received to meet this or that man. But at that it is more than Darcy ever got out of a single go in all his life before.

It is said on pretty fair and reliable authority that Darcy's biggest collection heretofore was twenty-five per cent of a $27,000 house. That would be about $6,750 and it was in the first fight he had with Brown that Darcy received it. Having beaten Brown twice back home Darcy may consent to take him on here at Walsh's price.

It also should be remembered that back in the Antipodes Darcy was compelled to travel twenty rounds to a referee's decision to get his dough. Here he is asked to go only half that distance.

Still, they learn high fiance in a hurry when they hit these shores, and perhaps Darcy has been stung with the bug, too.

Havana may be the scene of the fifth encounter between Charlie White and Freddie Welsh. Those two birds have met four times for a total of fifty rounds and the lightweight crown still rests firmly upon the Briton's head. White, however, believes that if the distance is extended to twenty-five rounds he may be able to seize it. That seems to be about as much of a marathon as Welsh cares for, although White is trying to get him to consent to making it a finish affair.

Welsh recently announced he would retire on July 7, the third anniversary of the date on which he wrested the sceptre from Willie Ritchie. In the meanwhile he says he will enter one more distance fight. That is the bout White wants. So does Ritchie Mitchell.

"I'll fight Mitchell to see which one of us gets the crack at Welsh," said White. "I already have agreed to box twenty-five rounds in Havana. If Welsh is the other man I'll be glad. I've told my manager, Nate Lewis, that if he signs Welsh I'll go fifty-fifty with him on my end of the purse."

Welsh and Harry Pollok, who guides his destinies, have never boasted of the fact that Billy Roche, Welsh's choice for referee, slipped the champion the decision in that twenty-round fiasco at Colorado Springs and may be easier to toll into another match with White than is apparent just now.

Speaking of Willie Ritchie, that erstwhile lightweight has been stung by the welterweight bee and believes that having taken on too much poundage to qualify as a lightweight any longer he is entitled to a slash at the crown which by mutual consent seems to adorn the brow of Jack Britton.

Ritchie has asked Dominick Tortorich, of New Orleans, to get him a twenty-round go with either Britton or some of the other welters. Ritchie made an effort to establish himself as a welter last year when he tackled Ted Lewis, the Englishman, and was outpointed a mile and a half. Then Lewis got ambition and took a triming from Britton in New Orleans. Britton is going good now, beating them all consistently, and there is no reason why he should decline to meet Ritchie.

Billy Weeks, Canadian middleweight champion, may be the man to meet Mike Gibbons in New Orleans this month. Gibbons has signed for a fight, but his opponent is not yet selected. Billy Bishop, Week's manager, has been persistent in his efforts to get them together, and Eddie Kane, who pilots Gibbons, is not averse if terms can be arranged with the Canadian. Bishop is said to have offered to bet $2,000 that Gibbons cannot trim Weeks. If the money is real Mike is passing up a good chance if he doesn't get Weeks in the ring with him.

George Chip, Knockout Brown and Gus Christie also are said to have a yen for tackling Mike. Chip might bons has trounced the other two and they scarcely would be drawing cards now.

WAR CERTAIN SAYS COL. WATTERSON

we were. So will it be with the Germans."

"Both Germany, and the German people, will in the end fare better without autocracy. Neither of the kaisers is needful to the welfare of the German people, upon whom, to make for themselves a Roman holiday, the two have inflicted ruthless slaughter. Nobody purposes to wrong the nations, or the commonalty of Germany. Truly spoke the answer of the Allies to the note of the American president: "It goes without saying that the allies wish to liberate Europe from the brutal covetousness of Prussian militarism; it never has been their design, as has been alleged, to accomplish the extermination of the German peoples and their political disappearance. That which they desire above all is to insure a peace upon the principles of liberty and justice, upon the invincible fidelity to international obligation with which the government of the United States has never ceased to be inspired."

"Is it your opinion, Mr. Watterson," asked the reporter, "that the country will be a unit behind the administration?"

He replied, "there is not a true American living who will not range himself side by side and shoulder to shoulder with the president. He has done rather more than his best to avert this crisis. It has come in spite of him. Unfortunately the pro-German propaganda, organized in Berlin and paid for out of the imperial treasury, has been only too successful in misleading the German-Americans. They are altogether different from the noble and patriotic Germans who in 1848 fled to the United States to find freedom and escape despotism. I am afraid there are a great many kaiser reservists among them and that in the event of war these may give us trouble."

"Fully to comprehend this danger we must go back a little. Whilst the men of 1848, who had come here, were alive, they had worn the brand of renegades and refugees. Their progeny, however, has prospered greatly. The kaiser government began to change its tune. After all the kaiser scheme of universal conquest might need these German-Americans in its business. The kaiser began personally to tolerate certain rich Americans—especially in Kiel waters during the yacht racing season."

"Prince Henry was sent over. The German-American Alliance, a body of kaiser reservists, was created. The German-American press was subsidized. Thus the Hyphenates who fell under the spell so artfully contrived became literally and emphatically "another breed o' dogs."

"They thought they had the world in a sling. They started out to run the country. Then finding a few Americans left, they began to threaten. They held the balance of voting power, they thought, and woe to the politician that dared to say them nay. In the event of an armed conflict between the United States and Germany, their organs shamelessly declared, it would not be a foreign but a civil war. The native American knew nothing about the European situation. The German-American knew it all."

"Now we are told by these implacable Hyphenates that we are pulling England's chestnuts out of the fire. As a matter of fact the average feeling in this country is rather un-English than pro-English. The typical American has consistently and earnestly urged the wisdom and the justice of Home Rule for Ireland. He believes no more in kingcraft than in kaisercraft, holding the Tory and the Junker in equal aversion. But, with Lloyd George Prime Minister, hope for Ireland in sight, the whole ship's crew of us are ready to stand by England, our historic enemy, even as we stand by France, our historic friend."

"That is about the sum of it," concluded the editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, "the mass and body of us deplore this aspect of the situation The Germans among us have been a good, useful neighborly people. They are in their normal state an orderly people. But I am afraid in the crisis which faces us we shall not find them a loyal people. It is they not ourselves who have been deceived, touching the issues of the murder war. They are an obstinate people. Their passions are stirred. Most of their leaders look not to Washington, but to Berlin. Many of them are in the kaiser's pay. That is in reality, the worst part of the situation and the most regretable because I feel sure the kaiser's doom is sealed and have no fear of the result of war if it comes to pass."

DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS

few minutes he learned that the note ficiently cooled, he began assessing the true situation. He laid the matter before cabinet and asked individual opinions.

Stirring speeches created a general view that a super crisis had been reached.

Later in the day the president went to the capitol to get the public sentiment, through the senators.

His view confirmed, the majority of the senators favoring an immediate break.

President Wilson saw callers last night, and worked late into the night on a speech, and retired. This morning he read the document again and decided to take it to congress.

Throwing aside business, he went golfing. At 10 o'clock he delivered the address to Secretary Tumulty for the public printer.

INDIANAPOLIS MAN STRONG IN PRAISE OF MOORE HAVEN

Mr. A. C. Dunn, of Indianapolis, has been again a visitor in Miami, and leaves for his home today. Mr. Dunn is as enthusiastic as ever regarding Miami and her marvelous climate, and be speaks for Miami a wonderful future.

Moore Haven has for Mr. Dunn an exceptional attraction also, for last winter when here he purchased from the South Florida Farms company a section of land there, and has just returned from Moore Haven, where he has been spending a week looking over the Moore Haven country. As is the case with all of the men who have invested in Moore Haven he is unstinted in his praise of the wonderful work that is being accomplished there in the way of real definite development work, and stated yesterday, that there is no limit to the possibilities of Moore Haven. Having been offered $1,200 for a lot that he bought last year at the time he bought his tract, and which lot cost him $600, he could not resist the opportunity of adding to his holdings and acquired an additional four business lots in the town, and on two of them he plans to erect a double building, with hotel above, as Mr. Dunn states that he realizes the absolute need of dwelling and store accommodation.

Speaking of further growth Mr. Dunn said "I have watched new towns in Minnesota and Dakota grow, and to my mind Moore Haven, having a surrounding country of the richest soil in the United States, and with 80 per cent of the population of the state within a radius of twelve to fifteen miles for her marked, and in consideration of the fact that California lands are selling at $1200 to $1500 per acre where they have to fertilize and irrigate, is assured of a future far beyond anything that we can think of at this early time in her history. With the railroad an assured fact as it is in a few months, it seems to me that the town will grow to at least 2,500 people in two years, and keep on growing too, for it has that wonderful backing of real agricultural land. Moore Haven has all the elements require to make a good town,"

Mr. Dunn was surprised at the progress that he noticed had been made in the first year of the history of Moore Haven, and looks for much greater things by way of progress in the year to come.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH

A most interesting program was given by the Woman's Missionary society of the First Christian church, which met at the home of Mrs. T. O. Wilson, 401 Santiago avenue, Miramar, on Friday afternoon. The topic for the afternoon was: "Work of the Disciples of Christ in Porto Rico," and interesting, and instructive papers were read by Mrs. J. U. Treadwell, Miss Nellie Sanford, Mrs. F. P. Haden, Mrs. W. L. Brown and a talk on "A Study of the Child in the Light of the Master Teacher," by Dr. I. E. Adams. After the regular program, Miss Mary J. Judson, who has been for many years an international officer of the C. W. B. M. at Indianapolis, Indiana, and who is spending the winter in Miami, gave a talk that was both interesting and inspiring. At the conclusion of the program, a social half hour was spent, and light refreshments partaken of. Members of the local society present were: Mrs. W. A. Hobbs, Mrs. Ira E. Adams, Miss Nellie Sanford, Mrs. W. L. Brown, Mrs. J. H. Hughes, Mrs. T. O. Wilson, Mrs. A. L. Bass, Mrs. J. U. Treadwell, Mrs. M. V McCourtney, Mrs. F. P. Haden, Dr. I. E. Adams. MISSION CIRCLE WITH MRS. HADEN

The freezing weather of Friday evening did not in any way effect the ardor and enthusiasm of the Mission Circle of the First Christian church, which held their regular monthly meeting with Mrs. E. P. Haden, at her home, "Mango Lodge," Cocoanut Grove, at 7.30. The president, Mrs. Vernon Posey, conducted a short business session, and the program followed. Victrola music and refreshments helped to make the evening a pleasant one. The circle will meet next month with Mrs. J. M. Logan, 505 Tenth street. Those enjoying the evening were. Gaines Wilson, Eleanor Cozatt, Randall Cozatt, Mrs. A. L. Bass, Mrs. J. C. Smith, Mrs. T. O. Wilson, Peyton Wilson, Ursula Cozatt, Lewis Greene, John Higgins, Marion McCourtney, Mrs. M. V. Col. Thompson Talks Interestingly To Current Class, Woman's Club

Quite the most impressive meeting the Current Events class has ever held was that of yesterday afternoon in which Colonel Robert M. Thompson, president of the Navy league, addressed a large and much impressed audience of men as well as women on the subject of our national preparedness and the duties of the citizens. Our relations with Germany and the sense of great events imminent caused Colonel Thompson to speak with the highest degree of earnestness and appeal, and brought his facts and figures home with, at times, almost shocking force.

Colonel Thompson was introduced by the leader, Mrs. Kate Aplington. He began by speaking of the grave situation of the present crisis, the gravest the United States has faced for fifty years, in view of which he could not give his prepared address, but spoke extempore. Every word that the colonel spoke came from his deep conviction of the danger we face. He spoke slowly, with every word counting and with such weight and such force that his audience was absolutely hushed in listening to him, only breaking that stillness with an occasional overwhelming burst of applause.

With our present conditions of national defense, the Colonel said any nation that had control of the sea could land an army on our soil ten days after embarking. In one month they could secure reinforcements. "What have we done," he continued, "to keep this danger from us? Nothing. We are no better prepared today than we were when the European war broke out two years ago. We have made appropriations for no ships. And the general opinion seems to be that an appropriation made by congress is a fact accomplished. Under our present conditions it takes from four to five years before a ship is ready to fire a gun. Three years ago two battleships were begun. It will be four years longer before they are complete. Last winter congress appropriated money for a large number of ships. Up to this moment not one stroke of work has been done upon these. So if we go ino war today we go in the same state as we were when the present war began. During this same period England has built more ships than we have in our entire navy. I tell you this,"

Colonel Thompson spoke with gravity and absolute sincerity: "I tell you this, with all sense of my personal responsibility. In the event of war, our fleet must occupy the same position as that of Germany. It must get behind a bulwark of mines or fortifications that will protect it.

"If you were going to insure your house, would you put your money with a company which could not pay? We have deliberately, year after year, gone on paying enormous sums which brought us nothing. I am not making these statements for the purpose of recrimination. I must drive in the facts. Your duty from now on is to create public opinion which will drive congress into taking action which will place you in a position where you can defend your homes from the horrors that Belgium and Serbia have known. Our excuse for this inaction has been that somebody will make some money out of our inaction. We have lost tens of millions of dollars by this since the prices of production have risen so much higher than what we would have paid for it two years ago.

"The life of the American people is in danger and we stand today haggling over the question of what to do and by what taxes to raise the money. All that is so insignificant, so unimportant. How can any man, in the face of what is going on in Europe today, lack the power to put two and two together? This situation has been staring us in the face for two years, and we have done nothing. Have we Americans become so degenerate, so unwilling to take care of ourselves in case of attack? There is only one thing for us to do. We will have to submit, to pay whatever demand is made upon us, to accept any terms. And I pray God that we will see the destruction of our property and our sons gone to their death rather than this.

'The will of the nation is the will of the citizens of the nation. In such times as this everyone of you that does nothing, does wrong. It is up to everyone of you to think, to talk, to influence someone, if we are to have this nation acting unitedly. If it has the will to be free it will be free. And if you are worthy of your ancestors you will be willing to make sacrifices. As every citizen is, so the nation will be.

"I will tell you why there is this question before the nation today. In '61 before the sectional war broke out we were a fairly united people. We had become a nation in the sense in which England or France is now. We fought what was at that time the great war of the century. Taken in proportion to the population the Eurpeon war of today has not yet reached the cast of that. The sacrifices we made then have never been equalled. When that war was over we found ourselves in debt. Upon us rested the burden of the principal as well as providing the capital to enable our citizens to come out of the trenches. But we had the greatest reservoir of natural resources then existing. Our forests were so great the ordinary mind could not see the end. We used them recklessly but in part to pay our huge debt. We were just opening up the greatest and most fertile of lands. We had just discovered great mines of gold and silver and copper and iron. We used the product to pay the interest and because we had the natural supplies we got control of the debt and reduced the interest.

"The fifty years following our war and ending with the present European war were the most wonderful in the history of the world. When our Civil War broke out our ships were much the same kind as those of Nelson, Drake and Frobischer. Today our ships are immense machine shops filled with engines of destruction one shot from which would destroy every ship of war the United States owned at the end of the Civil war.

"Man belongs to the land, but during this time he took possession of the sea and of the air. During this century as our power of production increased, following the economic law that as fast as the things to eat increase so fast the mouths to eat them come, the people increased by the hundred million. The older countries of Europe were like sponges completely saturated and they squeezed against each other. Prior to '61 the immigrants came to this country in small groups. When we began to develop our country we needed labor and we sent out to create artificial stimulant to immigration. We were suffering from high prices that meant high wages. To the foreigners these wages meant wealth and ....

soon the work we needed done was finished, but the increased number of immigrants themselves created more work to be done and they came over by the million to the million and a half per year. In these modern times it is the machines that produce and we must increase our machines in proportion to the increase in the population.

"In '61, of the forty-eight millions in the country, six were Indians and negroes, forty-two millions were the old American stock. Today we have one hundred millions, fifteen millions of Indians and negroes, forty-five millions that are immigrants and the descendants of immigrants and forty millions of the old stock. That means that the old stock, the people with the traditions of '76 have become much fewer. Not that the other stock is not just as good, but they are people for whom the United States has no tradition. A Frenchman fights for France as for his mother, but when you call upon the German-American, the Russian-American, the Swedish-American to fight for America, he says: "Why?" They do not fight automatically, with the spirit of the traditions of this country. We have had brought to us many problems of the old world. We are today eating twice as much as we ought, while Europe, under the stress of war, has found that life and health may be sustained with less than half that we consume. This generation has acquired the habit of luxury. It used to be the luxury of the rich, but today it is the luxury of the poor. There is a great discontent. Labor believes it is oppressed by capital and capital thinks labor is lazy and dishonest. We are in a condition of industrial discontent and inefficiency. In these past two years our people have been in two camps, some favoring the central, powers some the allies. They have followed not reasons, but old racial distinctions. But that man is not an American who can think that any other nation is absolutely right in all its actions.

"With our conditions of bad blood at home, our hyphenated citizens, our riches to tempt any robber nation there is a pressing necessity to do something to defend ourselves against attack.

"It takes from four to five years to construct battleships. If we need ships now we can't get them. What can we do? There is only one thing left. We must have a great army. How?

"It has been shown that it is the boys that fight your battles. Why should we waste time in training our son? Every year there are one million boys of eighteen years of age. It is a vital necessity that these boys be as perfect physically as possible. No boy of eighteen ought to be in the working ranks of the producers. We have proved at West Point and Annapolis that we can take any boy of seventeen or eighteen and make him into as fine a soldier as anyyhere in the world. What we can do for a thousand we can do for a million or twenty millions.

"My answer to our present problem is, let us take our boys of eighteen and make soldiers of them in every sense of the world, in two years. Let them have two years in the reserve. We would then have an army in being of two millions and a potential army of four millions. That is not to provoke war. No nation would dare to send an army here. That army would not be for war, but for peace.

The training must be universal with no exceptions. It will be for the rich man's son and for the poor man's son. That training would do away with the old race feeling, it would give us the common spirit of our old force and would draw the hyphens out in one generation. It would do away with the class of labor and of capital since you can't breed suspicion when the classes have learned each other man to man. It would do away with our gunmen, our hoboes, our hoodlums.

"They talk about the wonders of the Swiss system, of the Austrian system, but why don't we talk about the American system? One hundred and thirty years ago after the adoption of the constitution, we had the finest system in the world. Congress declared that every citizen between eighteen and forty should be liable for military service. Now we don't need all that. Our boys would be enough."

After a detailed study of the cost and other facts about universal military training, Colonel Thompson concluded, "America today is a great big overgrown fat boy with pennies in his pocket that anyone can take away. We are being brought today to realize the seriousness of the danger.

"If we had been wise enough we would have been safe today. But it is never too late to mend."

At the conclusion of Colonel Thompson's stirring address, the audience rose and sang the Star Spangled Banner, and remained standing as the distinguished "Father of the American Navy" left the building.

LADIES' AUXILIARY CENTRAL LABOR UNION

The ladies' auxiliary of the Central Labor union, held their weekly meeting Thursday afternoon in the Woodman hall. It proved to be a very advantageous one for various reasons. First, there being a committee from the Central Labor union body to impart the good tidings of the said body being heartily in favor of the ladies auxiliary of the Central Labor union taking out a charter and affiliating with the American Federation of Labor, giving them a broader field to work in and a constitution, whereby each and every member may put her work to the betterment of all labor movements and its sympathizers.

Mr. Robbins of the Central body, gave some very interesting talks on the work the auxiliary is doing, also explaining the taking out of a charter, and the good faith all of the Central body have in the work being done by the said ladies auxiliary, and to prove their appreciation of such work as has been done, and with so much more to be done, will still continue to give the ladies their financial aid under whatever charter they may choose to affiliate with, and if the money which they receive now is not sufficient to launch the continuance of the work, they will donate the shortage. So with such good encouragements, the ladies will no doubt take hold and make the year 1917 an everlasting monument for unionism, for which Miami is known broadcast.

The situation of the child labor question is to be taken up and given a thorough investigation. All members who are interested in this work should come to the weekly meetings and help to do their bit for suffering humanity, which all mothers should be interested in.

MORE PEP IN BALL GAMES

Is Desire of Baseball Managers —Fans All Over Country Echo the Cry

By Jack Veiock.

New York, Feb. 3.—Several major league managers are convinced that the wrangling of members of the Players' Fraternity with the magnates may be extended in another direction the coming season.

"Some of the players who have been such close pals in the past will not be quite as friendly next season," says Wild Bill Donovan, of the Yankees; and Uncle Wilbert Robinson and Johnny McGraw are also of this opinion.

They believe that the threatened strike of the Fraternity will bring about a condition which has been needed in baseball for a number of years—less of the fraternal spirit among players on the field of play and more rivalry, which is needed to put ginger into the games.

Many's the time we have heard fans remark that the players on opposing teams are too friendly. Visiting each other's clubhouses and benches and chatting in a confidential way during the progress of a game of ball takes something of the spirit of competition from the pastime, they say.

No baseball fan appreciates a game that drags. Pepper is the thing he wants to see. He also wants to see the players fight for everything they can get out of a ball game. By this we do not mean that the baseball bug will applaud rowdyism, for, speaking in a general sense, he will not. Of course, there is always a sprinkling of fans who enjoy an exhibition of fisticuffs on the ball field, but the percentage is so small that it is scarcely worth while mentioning.

The belief expressed by Bill Donovan was recently recounted by Joe Tinker, the ex-manager of the Cubs. Joe says that members of the Fraternity and non-members of the organization held each other aloof. He claims that his failure to keep the Cubs in the pennant race was partly due to factions on his team. And yet Joe believes that the wide sprinkling of members and non-members throughout the two major leagues ought to bring about greater rivalry in the future.

Uncle Wilbert Robinson has no patience with the spirit that has invaded the game during the past few years. It is his belief that a majority of the players have unknowingly reached the point where they never worry how a game of ball ends as long as they get their pay. And Robinson was a member of the fighting Baltimore Orioles of the old days, when players didn't get "clubby" on the ball field. They went out there to win and they fought every inch of the way.

Tad Jones, the miracle man of football, believes that boxing and wrestling will help his gridiron players condition themselves for the coming campaign in a large way.

Jones has advised his players, eighty in all, to take up both sports during the summer months. He says that in order to be at his best the football player must keep himself in condition first of all, and in doing so he must map out a way whereby he can develop speed of the eye, the brain, the arms and the legs. He must bring all of his muscles into play in various ways to fit himself for delivering his best on the football field.

Snowy Baker, the Australian fight promoter, writes that the bantamweights are going big in Kangaroo Land.

"The banties are all the go in Australia at present," says Baker. They are drawing big houses, and the fight loving public has been taking more interest in the little fellows than ever before.

During the past few weeks a number of elimination contests among some of the coming bantams have been held in Sydney and Melbourne. At each of these bouts crowds of from 5,000 to 7,000 have been turning out.

Among the bantams who are holding places in the line in Australia are Jack Jannese, the champion, and Vince Blackburn, Harry Holmes, Andy McGuire, Eddie Clifford, Chick Lloyd and Albert Locke.

Jimmy Clabby, who is numbered among the victims of Fred Kay, the Australian sensation of the present day, was recently offered a big guarantee for a return match with the conqueror of Milburn Saylor, but Jimmy declined. Clabby is far from being through with the boxing game, for he has many a good battle left in his system, but the lure of the racing game has been keeping Clabby out of the ring, and he is said to be making a mint of money around Australian tracks, where he is associated with Eddie McGoorty in running a "book."

When you horn in on a player's pocketbook or interfere with his pleasures, you immediately get a huge squawk out of him. When Dave Fultz was preparing to hurl his defi into the teeth of organized baseball, he commissioned "Steamer Al" Demaree to act as chairman at a meeting of Fraternity members around Chicago. Demaree, being a director of the Fraternity, responded nobly and made some statements which indicated he was for the Fraternity first, last and all the time.

Then Demaree was traded to the Cubs by the Phillies, and shortly afterward Fultz announced that the departure of the Cubs from Chicago was to be the signal for the first big gun of the players' strike. Having become a member of the Cubs, Demaree realized that he would be expected to stay at home if he kept his Fraternity vows, and he promptly yelped his disapproval of the plan.

It was just one instance of the divergency of opinion among the players who are Frat members. Y' can't find unity there.

GALLAT BLOCK ON CITY PARK

Contract Soon to Be Awarded On Eighteen Apartment Houses

The prospects for building operations during the present year were never brighter, and the coming fall will see many new apartment houses and accommodations in Miami.

The large number of building permits that were issued during January will in all probability be equalled during the present month, as plans have already been prepared for many residences and other structures and it is estimated that the first two weeks of February will equal, if not exceed, that of the same period of last month.

Announcement was made yesterday that Frank Gallat will build an eighteen room apartment house on Ninth street, facing the city park, and work upon the foundation for this new structure has already begun. Application for a permit will be made some time during the week by Will A. Otter, the contractor for the work, and the building will be completed by July 1. Plans for the structure were drawn by Edward A. Nolan, local architect. These call for seventy-two rooms, each of which will front upon a balcony or porch. There will be nine rooms facing city park.

The new apartment house, which will have accommodations for eighteen families, will be located within a short distance from the Miami river and in one of the finest neighborhoods in the city.

While the permit has not as yet been granted, it was said by the contractor yesterday that it will provide for an expenditure of at least $25,000, while Mr. Gallat contemplates expending almost double that amount on furnihsings and other improvements in that vicinity.

The large demand for first-class apartments may be judged from the fact that nine of the apartments have already been spoken for by permanent tenants who propose to reside in Miami during all seasons of the year.

WILL DISCUSS VITAL TOPICS

At Meeting of Chamber of Commerce Tonight—Visitors Welcome to Attend

The open meeting of the Miami Chamber of Commerce, which will be held tomorrow night promises to be interesting, as some important matters concerning the entertainment of winter visitors will be discussed and a large attendance is desired.

Reports of the various bureaus will be made and these will be well worth hearing, according to President E. G. Sewell, last night.

"The question of building more hotels and apartment houses for the care of the ever increasing multitude of people who come to Miami each season, is an important one," declared President Sewell, "and Monday nights' meeting should be attended by every member of the Chamber as well as the citizens in general.

This is the second season that Miami has been overcrowded with visitors, which is an assurance that the citly has passed the experimental stage," according to Mr. Sewell, who feels that something should be done to encourage those who may be interested in building.

The large number of hotel and apartment house sites that have changed hands during the past few months is an indication that several of the investors are interested in Miami's future and they must all feel that there is an opening for more hotels or apartment houses.

President Sewell feels that now is the proper time to agitate these questions, as there are many wealthy investors in the city at this time and such subjects will be of interest to them now when they can see more of a necessity for hotels and apartment houses than at any other time of the year, especially when they are not here.

Most mothers need no introduction to Educator shoes but to those who are yet to become acqainted with them we direct this little talk.

There is only one "Educator Shoe" and they are constructed throughout to let growing feet develop as they should. Shaped to the natural foot they give perfect satisfaction, not only in real, solid comfort from the minute they are slipped on, but in unequalled service as well.

CAUSEWAY TO THE SUPREME COURT GOES

Bowers Southern Dredging Co. to Take Appeal On Court Decision

INJUNCTION CONTINUES

And Bond of $40,000 Required to Protect Defendant From All Damage

In the suit of E. P. Maule of West Palm Beach against the Dade County Board of County Commissioners and the Bower's Southern Dredging Co., to contest the contract for construction of the causeway across Biscayne Bay, Judge H. Pierre Branning signed an order yesterday continuing the injunction in force, a bond of $40,000 being required to protect the defendant from an damage which might be sustain ed.

This is taken in legal circles to mean that the Bower's Southern Dredging Co., will take an appeal to the supreme court immediately.

As to the probable effect on the causeway project, it is said this will mean a delay of at least seven months in the beginning of work, which information will prove interesting to Miamians.

Attorneys in the case are A. J. Rose and M. D. Carmichael for E. P. Maule; G. E. McCaskill for Dade County Commissioners, and Shuts, Smith and Bowen for the Bower's Southern Dredging Co.

EXPECTING TRINITY ORGAN

Officials of Trinity M. E. Church, south, are expecting their new pipe organ to reach Miami next week, when it will be put in place as soon as possible. A concert will be given to inaugurate the installation of the organ.

ADDITIONAL BOAT LINE

Owing to the demand for transportation across the Everglades from Palm Beach and other points up the coast, the Pioneer Boat Line has decided to establish a separte line leaving Palm Beach through the Palm Beach canal to Moore Haven and Fort Myers.

The new arrangement will in no way affect the line now being operated from Miami to Fort Lauderdale, which will continue to run two boats each week between these points. The Palm Beach line will, however, shorten the distance from Palm Beach by one night and one-half day.

The reason given for the new line is the excessive demand for transportation from Palm Beach, which has been too great to handle from Fort Lauderdale. The officials of the line have been looking for a suitable steamer for the service and have at last secured one which will be able to accommodate several passengers. The company decided sometime ago to put on four boats each week and the only difference from this arrangement is that two sailings will be made from Palm Beach.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Three marriage licenses were issued by County Judge Sam Barco yesterday. One of these was to a white couple and the other two to negroes. Richard W. Lawton, of Miami and Matilda Mettair, of Little River, were the white couple who secured a license, and Austin Moss and Annie Symonette and Henry F. Williams and Rosa Walker were the colored couples.

NEW HARBOR MASTER NAMED

Captain G. E. Munson Replaces Capt. McIntyre, Who Now Is Pilot Commissioner

Captain George E. Manson has been appointed harbor master and has already begun his duties. Captain Manson is well known in Miami and other points along the coast. He is captain of the charterboat Helena IV which operates from the Royal Palm dock, which boat he will continue to command.

The houseboat Lady Fish, which is in command of Med Kellum, arrived from Jewfish Creek and other points among the keys yesterday, and will remain at Miami for several days. On board the houseboat are Miss Lauder of Pittsburg and a party of friends who are spending the season here.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McCoy, who have been cruising in southern waters for several weeks, have returned from the Florida keys and will remain on board their yacht, Tanguingui, which will lie at anchor here until the cold spell is over.

SUIT FOR DIVORCE

A divorce suit was filed in the circuit court clerk's office yesterday by Guspinia Bullard against James Bullard, who were married in March, 1914, and separated in April, 1916. The wife alleges habitual drunkenness and cruelty. Taylor and Taylor represent her.

PAIR OF FIRE ALARMS

Two fire alarms busied the local department yesterday, but in each case the damage was trifling.

An alarm at 10.30 yesterday morning summoned the firemen to the home of J. T. Knox, at 920 Fifteenth street, where a fire was caused from a gasoline stove. The blaze was extinguished with practically no damage.

A telephone call sent the department to the home of L. T. Norwood, at 1024 Fourteenth street, at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, where fire was caused from a defective flue. It required a little time for the firemen to locate the blaze and it was extinguished with little damage.

CAPE SABLE LAND A SAFE INVESTMENT

Cape Sable Land at which point you have arrived, is a body of rich marl prairie and hammock ready for the planter who wishes to plow for profit. The pioneer community, recently started there, is a happy and busy bunch. Why don't you join them?

MODERN PRODIGALS

Dr. White pastor of the First Baptist church will preach four sermons on "Modern Prodigals," beginning tonight, with "The Prodigal Father." The other three will be on "The Prodigal Mother," "The Prodigal Daughter" and "The Prodigal Son". Services are held at 7:30 o'clock in Central School Auditorium, corner avenue C and 9th street.

EXPECTING TO MAKE MANY LARGE SALES

Down town property has been most in the lime light, because of the magnitude of the individual deals. Suburban property is fully as active, which is evidenced by the many allotment sales held within the last month.

E. E. Dammers of the firm of Dammers & Gillette, real estate auctioneers, who have held very successful sales, namely Griffin Bros., Biscayne Heights and Dr. Burkharts famous Winter Gardens where they sold a large number of lots at good round figures, says that never before in the six years they have been selling property in Florida has he seen such an unprecedented demand for building lots. This he says applies especially to Miami whose magic growth is attracting the attention of investors from all over the country.

Opportunities for making profitable investments here in Miami are unequaled anywhere in the United States is the belief expressed by Mr. Dammers. He says that many people who are purchasing property at their auction sales will be astounded at the profits they will make from a small investment. They have a large number of sales for February and March in Miami and are sure they will sell for their clients an enormous amount of property.

SEVEREST COLD WAVE IN HISTORY

Swept Over the Entire South Atlantic States and Caused Much Damage

FLORIDA WAS HARD HIT

Dade County's Loss Not Total—High Prices Will Help to Minimize Damage

The lowest temperatures ever recorded in Miami were registered at the local weather bureau early yesterday morning, when the mercury indicated twenty-seven degrees above zero, which was lower by two degrees than temperatures recorder on the 14th of February and January 26th 1905.

Temperatures were reported as low as twenty two degrees in the lowlands on the outskirts of the city, and people who used irrigating plants to protect their crops declare their fields were a solid sheet of ice. One man was compelled to resort to the application of heat to thaw the pipes of his irrigating plant.

The vegetable crop of the state is believed to have been almost a total loss, except some localities in the vicinity of Miami where measures for protection were used. This constituted a very small percentage of the entire acreage in the state, however.

Well informed buyers of fruits and vegetables expressed the belief yesterday that the fruit crop further north is badly damaged and there may be some injury to trees.

Practically all young unprotected avocadoes in Dade county were destroyed, and a considerable part of the pineapple crop was lost, but as only a part of the pineapples were in bloom, the loss will by no means be total, and the late bloom will insure fruit in due course of time.

Jacksonville experienced the lowest temperature in the state, the mercury there falling to sixteen degrees. At Pensacola temperatures of eighteen degrees were recorded, and at Orlando the thermometer registered twenty-four, and at Tampa twenty-six.

Reports from the other Florida cities were lacking because of telegraph wires being down.

A phenominal high pressure area that swept down from the northwest caused the entire southeastern part of the United States to be overswept by the cold wave, and caused abnormally low temperatures even for cold waves.

At Montgomery and Chattanooga the mercury registered 12, and Raleigh experienced ten degrees while at Knoxville, Tenn., the thermometer indicated a temperature of two degrees. The weather in the entire south Atlantic belt was the coldest for many years, and at the same time the temperatures were abnormally low over the eastern half of the United States, with zero weather in the Lake Region.

The local weather bureau forecasted the cold wave in ample time for growers to protect themselves from any but the severest kind of weather. Notices were sent out by rural carriers from the Miami postoffice Wednesday, and the telephone was also brought into use to warn the farmers.

Although it would be hard to estimate the exact damage done by the frost, the leading growers throughout the county concede that the injury will aggregate several hundred thousand dollars.

A careful estimate yesterday led to the belief that practically all of the vegetable crop has been wiped out with the exception, perhaps, of some of the hardy plants which were only partly injured.

In the vicinity of Florida City the damage was not so bad as in the northern part of the country, according to information received from that place last night. It was reported there that about ten per cent of the young tomatoes were killed and older vines damaged badly, although it was thought these may be saved by pruning. The cabbage and peppers were practically unhurt.

As the greatest acreage about Florida City is in late tomatoes and cabbages, the growers of that section feel encouraged by the fact that prices will continue to advance.

So far as can be learned the citrus fruit trees throughout the county were unhurt.

The vegetable growers will be able to replant their crops in ample time to catch the spring markets and work will be begun immediately to replant thousands of acres in Dade county.

Many growers who contemplated picking and shipping this week will, instead, begin preparing for a new crop, which will take several weeks before the vegetables are ready for market.

MIAMI NAVAL MILITIA MAY SEE SERVICE

Would Play Important Part In Any Campaign to Be Decided Upon

Asked as to what part the Miami naval militia would play in the event of a declaration of war with Germany, Lieutenant Commander W. W. Thompson said last night, that the local division would play a most important part in any campaign that may be decided upon by the government, and that every member of the organization would be ready when called upon.

"The Miami Naval Militia is now ready to do its bit in the event of a declaration of war," said Commander Thompson. "In the event of hostilities, which now seems inevitable, the navy department would immediately commander all of the ocean-going yachts, a number of which are now in these waters, and on these vessels the various units of the naval militia would be placed to guard the coasts and harbors and to patrol narrow strips of water like that between Miami and Nassau."

With the approval of Governor Sidney J. Catts, the Miami Naval Militia is now ready to receive all supplies that are to be furnished by the navy department, which has already been appraised of the formation of the division, and a request for supplies has already gone forth and a naval officer is expected to be assigned to this locality at any time.

"The Miami Naval Division is made up of young men of every branch of the service required to man a vessel of that kind," continued Mr. Thompson, when seen last night. "We have seven men who have served in the United States Navy and the Naval Militia. We have navigators, engineers, wireless operators, electricians and experienced seamen. There are some land-lubbers in the division but they would soon know the ropes.

"The division could go on board any yacht in the harbor, or a much larger one, and go to sea with it without outside aid of any kind. It could take up the patrol of waters between here and Nassau as efficiently as any division in the country and it will be ready to do so if the need arises.

"There is not much likelihood that any of the Naval Miltia would be used for other than coast defense work," said the officer.

"Although, situated as Miami is, it might be allowed to keep watch over the straits adjacent to our harbor. The navy would be needed to guard the larger ports and the more thickly settled portions of the Atlantic and Pacific seaboards. Besides, we must keep a fairly good sized fleet at each end of the Panama Canal.

"There is not a man in the Miami division who would think of quitting in the face of a declaration of war. Although it seemed remote when the signatures were secured, it was an eventuality that entered into the consideration of every one of the men before he signed the application. As I said before, they would be ready to do their bit, and Miami will find nothing to be ashamed of if the need for their services arises."

SOCIETY

lowing her wedding, will take her exalted rank in the innermost circles of Old and New World society.

The young man is Henry Field, grandson of the late multi-millionaire merchant prince of Chicago, Marshall Field, who died in this city eleven years ago, leaving his many millions to be divided among a comparatively few heirs. On Wednesday next Henry Field will take as his bride Miss Nancy Perkins, a member of one of Virginia's oldest and most prominent families. The wedding is to take place at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, of this city. It will be a very quiet and unostentatious affair. According to present plans the guests will number scarcely more than a score and will be confined to members of the two families and a few intimate friends.

The bridegroom-elect already has an ample fortune in his own right, but he is destined to come into possession of many additional millions if he lives to the age of fifty years.

When the first Marshall Field died he left out two direct heirs. One was his second wife, to whom he had been married only a few months at the time of his death. The other was his daughter, who is now the wife of England's foremost naval hero, Admiral Sir David Beatty, who a short time ago was given supreme command of the great North Sea fleet.

While these two heirs were amply provided for in the will of Marshall Field, the bulk of the great fortune was left in trust for the two grandsons of the famous merchant, Marshall Field III, and Henry Field. These two are the sons of Marshall Field, Jr., who met an accidental death in Chicago about a year before the death of the elder Field in this city. In addition to the two sons Marshall Field, Jr., left a widow and daughter. The widow subsequently was married to Maldwin Drummond, an English army officer. The daughter, Miss Gwendolyn Field, who is now in her sixteenth year, has continued to reside abroad with her mother.

The fortune left by Marshall Field has been variously estimated at from $150,000,000 to $250,000,000. The greater part of it, outside of that represented by the great mercantile establishments bearing the Field name, is invested in downtown real estate in Chicago.

By the terms of their grantfather's bequest a sum of $100,000,000 was left in trust for Marshall Field, III, and his younger brother, Henry Field, the division of the fund to be made when the elder of the two reaches the age of fifty. As money at six per cent doubles itself every fourteen years, the two heirs will ultimately possess fortunes of something like $360,000,000 each.

Marshall Field III, the elder of the two, was married in this city on Feb. 6, 1915, to Miss Evelyn Marshall, only daughter of the late Charles A. Marshall. Last July a son was born to the couple and was christened Marshall Field, 4th.

Henry Field, like his elder brother, passed his boyhood in England and received his early education at Eton. His youthful ambition aimed at a career in the British navy, but as he grew older he lost his taste for the sea and after the loss of his father and grandfather he decided with his brother to quit England and make his future home in America.

Long before he had attained his majority Henry Field had demonstrated that he was a thoughtful and serious-minded youth and one thoroughly alive to the responsibilities that were heaped upon his young shoulders. Unlike the gilded youth of today he has shown no predelection for those excesses and mad pranks that are synonomous with the names of the sons of so many American millionaires.

He is fond of yachting and other outdoor pastimes, but is known more for his studious nature than for any love of sports. As a mere boy he took a man's view of life and long before he reached his majority he was as staid and settled as most men ten years his senior.

CITRUS CANKER BILL IS PASSED

Appropriations to Eradicate Disease Become Immediately Available

(Special to The Herald.)

Washington, Feb. 3.—The appropriation of $430,000 in the agricultural appropriation bill for the eradication and control of the citrus canker disease in Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas, was passed by the senate today.

The appropriation makes $180,000 immediately available for the department of agriculture to carry on its campaign during the remainder of the present fiscal year, ending June 31st and makes $250,000 available for the work in the next fiscal year.

There is a string tied to the $250,000 appropriation for next year, which provides that the money shall not be spent until the states, counties or communities have put up an equal amount to be spent with the government's money, on a fifty-fifty basis.

It is also stipulated that no part of this sum shall be used to pay the cost of trees or other property injured or destroyed in the campaign against citrus canker.

May Quarantine.

The secretary of agriculture is given authority under section 8 of the agricultural appropriation bill considered by the senate, today, to place under quarantine all those sections of Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas where the citrus canker prevails.

The section was inserted by the senate committee, it is believed, on reccommendation of the department of agriculture, which had in view the quarantining of the citrus canker section in the gulf states and the territory in New England suffering from the white pine blister.

Section 8 authorizes and directs 'the secretary of agriculture to quarantine any state, or portion thereof, when he shall determine such quarantine is necessary to prevent the spread of a dangerous plant disease or insect infection, now or not heretofore prevalent or distributed through the United States."

This section also directs the secretary of agriculture to give notice of such quarantine to common carriers in that quarantined area; publish such notice in the newspapers, and prevent the shipment from that area of any kind of plants, fruits, vegetables, roots, bulbs, seeds, or other plant products capable of transmitting the disease.

THE HIPPODROME TODAY

Bessie Love will be seen at the Hippodrome theatre, today in her new play, "Nina, the Flower Girl". In this drama, written especially for her by Mary H. O'Connor, editor of the Triangle-Fine Arts scenario department, Miss Love has the part of a blind girl, who makes artifical flowers to increase the scanty income of her grandmother, who cares for her. As a chum and protector she has Jimmie, a crippled newsboy. The grandmother's death leaves Jimmie the girl's sole protector until people of wealth take her under their care and succeed in having her sight restored. Her first desire is to see Jimmie. Through the skill of other doctors he is presented to her straight and strong, and she never knows that he was otherwise. Miss Love is said to give one of the most appealing performances of her screen career. The part of Jimmie is taken by Elmer Clifton, remembered for his recent appearance with Dorothy Gish in "The Little School Ma'am" and with Sir Herbert Tree in "The Old Folks at Home."

AT PARAMOUNT SOON

A magnificent spectacle in which the most popular author and the most eminent composer in America collaborated will be seen in "The Fall of a Nation," at the Paramount on Tuesday and Wednesday. Thomas Dixon, author of "The Clansman," "The Birth of a Nation" and other famous works, wrote and directed the film, whilst delightful and entertaining Victor Herbert composed the music.

The result of their joint efforts is a grand opera cinema that presents in a big, epoch-making way the origin and destiny of the American Republic. No other picture equals its truly wonderful depictment of Twentieth Century war. Withal the love story is a fascinating one, the comedy episodes are thoroughly amusing, and the acting will satisfy the most exacting lovers of sterling dramatic art.

Albert Spakling, Violin Virtuso, at the Paramount Theatre February 15.

PARAMOUNT TODAY

Carefully hidden under the thrills of "A Modern Cinderella" is a lesson for every family. Every youngster sister whose hopes and longings are often crushed to give "big sister" a chance; every older sister, whose eagerness for advancement often becomes gross selfishness, and every mother and father whose concern for their first born often creates a heart-breaking neglect for their younger children should see this great William Fox photoplay at Paramount today.

"A Modern Cinderella" is not a sermon. It's a William Fox motion picture and contains all the love, intrigue and breath-taking action the phrase imples.

FOTOSHO TODAY

Girls who are inclined to flirt will see in "Black Orchids," a beautiful Bluebird Photoplay, to be exhibited at the Fotosho theatre today. The possible outcome of their unmaidenly conduct. Zoraida was the worst type of a flirt, a beautiful wretch who enthralled men with her grace and charm and then cast them ruthlessly aside. For years she indulged herself thus and sorrow untold resulted in her heartless disregard for her hapless victims. But she jilted just one man too many—the worm turned, and Zoraida paid, with her own life, the penalty of her folly. Cleo Madison, one of the most beautiful and talented actresses upon the screen, will play the stellar role in "Black Orchids" and those who recall her triumph in a recent Bluebird, "The Chance of Sorrow," need hardly be assured that Miss Madison's emotional talents will result in artistic screen accomplishments.

Seat Sale For Spalding

Seats will go on sale at the Paramount theatre Monday for the first appearance in this city of Albert Spalding, the world's famous violinist, and Loretta Del Valle, the brilliant young American coloratura soprano who will make her local debut. As this will be the first time that either of these two exceptionally fine American artists have ever appeared in this city much attention is being attracted to this concert for it will also be the first big musical event of the coming season in this city. Spalding's fame is nation wide for he is known and honored in practically every nation in the civilized world where music plays an important part in the national life of the people. Loretta Del Valle, has been leading prima donna in many of the most prominent Opera Houses on the Continent including Prague, Cassel, Dresden, Mannheim, Vienna and Amsterdam as well as the Concert Stage of Paris, London and New York.

The concert in Miami will be on February 15, beginning at 8:15 P. M.

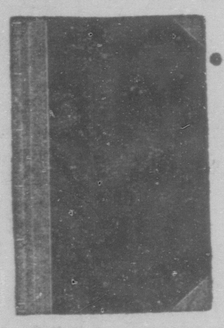

B'NAI B'RITH CONVENTION

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 3.—Hebrews who stand high in their respective communities as citizens and men of affairs are arriving in Buffalo from all parts of the country to attend the general convention of the Independent Order of B'nai B'rith. The order is the most prominent of all Jewish-fraternal and charitable organizations in the world. The present convention is expected to devote much of its attention to plans for the relief of Jewish war sufferers in Europe.

Wayne Montgomery was with us again on Friday, after having been absent due to illness.

MIAMI QUOIT CLUB

(BY A. W. SCHAEFFER)

Being urged by several tourists, and offered the space in the Miami Herald by the city editor of that newspaper to publish a short history of the club, and also a list of the names of the members, I will try to write it down as good as my moderate ability admits this.

When I came down from the big city of Chicago, about three and one half years ago, where there can be found not only plenty of business, but also any amount of pleasure for those people that like to amuse themselves, I certainly found myself at first very lonesome. I wandered through the city from north to south and from west to east, the business and the offerings of pleasures for the tourists, coming here every winter season. What I found was very little in the shape of pleasures, but a great deal of fine climate, which is really grand. My wandering at last brought me to the Royal Palm park, where I found several gentlemen amusing themselves with throwing horse shoes at stakes. I had seen this game in some small towns in the north, but never had an opportunity to take much interest in it. Here, I got more and more interested in this game, as I saw, that it not only was a very good way in passing my leisure time, but was also a very good exercise for keeping your limbs smooth and strengthening your muscles, and I visited this park every day and found great pleasure in it.

Coming here every day, I got acquainted with the players, and very often was asked to keep the scores for them, which I did with great pleasure.

One day, as I came to the park again—it was the 10th of December, 1914—I found the gentlemen playing on the side of the Boulevard and the outside of the sidewalk, and hearing of them, that they had been ordered out of the park by the gardener, I came at once to the conclusion that there was a way to regain the playground in the park. I conversed with several of the players, who were present, and gave them my idea, which was to organize a regular "Horseshoe Club," elect a president, secretary and treasurer, then have the president to appoint a committee of about three influential citizens, which could go to the manager of the hotel and grounds, Mr. Greaves, and lay before him the facts, that the tourists coming to Miami had not very much pleasure, except when they went over to the beach, which most of them would probably do twice a week, and the balance of the week they could only go to a picture show, and as they cannot sit all the time in such a show, they would not know what to do with the rest of their time. Then they should call Mr. Greaves' attention to the fact that there was always a big crowd watching those games, and amongst them a good many of his own hotel guests.

The club was organized at once, the officers were elected and the committee appointed. This committee went to the hotel the next morning, but did not find the manager, who had gone to Cuba for a few days so the newly organized club had to play on that uncomfortable place for some days longer. After the return of Mr. Greaves, the committee went there again and Mr. Greaves, who received them very pleasantly, told them, after our arguments were explained to him, that he would let us know in a short time what his decision was. The next day he sent one of his officers over and told us that Mr. Greaves would let us have our old ground under the condition that we would take out the stakes and even up the ground every evening, so that no one walking there in the evening would have an accident; further, that no profane language would be used, that no betting would be allowed.

We certainly accepted this with warn thanks to Mr. Greaves and moved back at once.

The club then organized permanently by electing Mr. J. T. Snyder president and A. W. Schaffer secretary and treasurer.

As the club is not a money-making association, the membership fees were resolved to be the small sum of 25 cents for the season, respectively the whole year. This money is used for buying the necessary tools, as hoe, waterbuckets and horseshoes, the latter are often broken by throwing them hard against the iron stakes, and certainly have to be replaced.

To show that even a no money making club has to have some funds, I will state that we had to buy in both former years about $20 worth of shoes, 3 hoes, as two of them disappeared from the grounds, and 2 or three buckets.

The increasing membership is shown by the following: In 1914, we had 70 members; in 1915 we had 88 members; 1916 to 1917 we have so far 120 members.

The greater increase in membership this year is partly due to the fact that the horseshoe club put up a checker table for those tourists that prefer a game of checkers, and really, that table is daily surrounded by a big crowd.

The club also intended to put in croquet games, so that the ladies could have some pleasure, but we were denied the ground necessary for such games.

Members of the Club.

Now, if it is not asking too much of the Miami Herald, to whom we extend our best thanks for the space given us in their valuable columns, I will also give to the public all the names of our members, and, where possible, the places where they come from; where there is no place given, they are mostly Miamians:

ALTA VISTA
"High View"

¶ The name—ALTA VISTA—is Spanish for "High View." This name was selected by the owner because Alta Vista is one of the highest points in this section.

Your Miami Home

¶ Built in this attractive residential section, will command a view of the entire surrounding country. Located on Biscayne Drive, north of the city limits, and to the east of it lies the beautiful estate of Charles Deering, which slopes gently towards Biscayne Bay.

An Old Estate

¶ Before being put on the market, Alta Vista was an old estate. On many of the lots are Grapefruit, Avocado, Mango and other tropical growth. The owner of Alta Vista has spent a vast sum of money in beautifying the property. In other words, a great deal of what you yourself would do around your premises has already been done.

¶ The building restrictions in Alta Vista insure high class homes. The lots are reasonably priced and we also arrange terms if desired.

¶ Let us show you this beautiful home section. Our automobiles are at your disposal. Just call 426 and make an appointment for a trip through Alta Vista. It will be a pleasure to show you.

Some of the Veterans.

Finishing the history of the Miami Quoit Club, I cannot do so without mentioning a few members who are over eighty years of age, and veterans of the civil war. Two of these veterans are pitching horseshoes every day and find it not only an amusing sport, but also strengthening their somewhat stiff limbs and giving them good appetites for their meals. I mention this to show the public that this sport is very beneficial for the peoples' health.

The names of these veterans are: Mr. J. K. Lancaster of Jasper Tenn., who is eighty years old, and Mr. John Steel, Butler, Mo., who is eighty-three years old.

In closing the history, I feel myself guilty of omitting one incident that happened in the season of 1916, as in last spring the secretary, A. W. Schaffer, was unable to attend to the horseshoe club's business, and the club elected Mr. Albert Anderson in his stead, but when this season commenced Mr. Anderson resigned, as his time was engaged in very important private business, and the club in its general year meeting, elected again the writer as its secretary.

After extensive experiments a Liverpool inventor has developed a product from seaweed for the manufacture of noninflammable motion picture films.

"WHY SHOULD I?"

IF YOU HAVE EVER GIVEN THOUGHT to the subject of buying a Woodlawn Park lot for future use, this question has perhaps occurred to you—"WHY SHOULD I?" Reasons are many. Here are a few:

(1) Because it is a pleasure to select and arrange for a lot when you can do so simply as a provision against the future.

(2) Because you avoid extra expense at a critical time.

(3) Because you will not be acting under pressure of circumstances. You can take your time, select, compare.

(4) Because lot values and prices advance as years go by.

(5) Because—if you stop to think a minute, you will see that there is EVERY reason why a matter of this kind is simplest and easiest now. Phone for prices and terms, and a free trip by Mr. Lansdell.

DIXIE HIGHWAY TRACT—To those residing permanently in Miami and to tourists here for the season, J. A. Gates & Son, have a message: We have formulated a plan whereby we can greatly reduce the price of real estate to purchasers, cause the business of real estate to be more highly respected, and to be more enjoyable and satisfactory to those engaged in the traffic. We purpose to sell lots in a tract by employing hired salesmen just as a merchant sells goods in his store by clerks in his employ. Parties visiting our Dixie Highway Tract, now being offered, will be shown over the tract by our salesmen. A tag bearing the lot and block number and price of lot is attached to a stake placed in front of each lot, to be detached by purchaser and presented at office of tract owner, where papers in settlement will be drawn. We can, we believe, by this method save the purchaser 25 per cent or more and complete the transaction most expeditiously and satisfactorily. We especially call attention to location of our Dixie Highway Tract. It adjoins the Charles Deering place on the north and extends from Dixie Highway to Bay View Ave., overlooking the Bay. All inside lots are held at a uniform price of $195 each, corners $300. If in this connection you note the fact that lots in Flander's tract which adjoins the Charles Deering place on the south, are held at prices ranging from about $3,000 to $5,000, and are on lower land, you will readily see that lots in Dixie Highway will certainly appreciate rapidly in value with the growth of Miami, and that you will make no mistake in buying now. Is it unreasonable to expect an advance of one hundred per cent in values within one year? May we not urge those of our home people thinking to secure a lot while cheap in price and most attractively located, to select now? May we not urge tourists seeking a place for building a winter home to visit us; and may we not especially urge builders who want to get a bunch of lots on which to build houses to sell or rent to select now which the selecting is good—the bunches are unbroken. Dixie Highway Tract has many advantages, such as electric lights, telephones, jitney busses about half hourly, ice, meat, groceries delivered daily, daily mail delivery, high school, churches, literary clubs, fraternities, and other advantages of a happy and cultured community. J. A. Gates & Son, 235 Twelfth street. Telephone 316.

GERMANY'S DEFIANCE EXCITES ALL ATLANTA

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 3.—Not since the sinking of the Titanic have the newsboys of Atlanta reaped such a harvest and yelled so loudly on the streets as they are now doing as the result of Germany's new submarine defi and the attendant complications involving the United States.

Every hour new extras are appearing with enormous headlines, and everybody is buying, eagerly, excitedly. The three big presses of the city are rolling day and night as they have not done since the Carpathia steamed into port with its burden of dead four years ago.

The later sinking of the Lusitania and the other horrors of war made no such impression on America's newspaper public as that other isolated disaster, for with the advent of the war horrors became such a daily diet that they lost their power to thrill, but now that the great world war is knocking at our own front door, the new developments, minute by minute, are assuming a news proportion the like of which America has never known since newspaper "extras" were invented.

WE ARE READY.

Foreshadowed in the dispatches of the last three or four days, foreshadowed in the addresses of the president and other officials, certain to come from the attitude of the central powers, this country today stands ready to take its part in the great conflict and the world is now entirely enveloped in the pall of war—it is now truly a world wide war.

When Germany, in response to the pacific address of President Wilson, with a cold statement that she proposed, forthwith, to institute unrestrained submarine warfare, when she marked off large portions of the free oceans with boundaries which she said we could not pass, Germany virtually declared war against the United States.

On that declaration the president, with all haste compatible with the dignity of his office and the character of the government he represents, handed the German ambassador his passports and required the American ambassador in Berlin to demand his own and return to his home. That did not necessarily mean that there would be war. Many times governments have found it necessary to sever diplomatic relations without proceeding further toward conflict. Very often that act alone, has been sufficient to bring the other nation to its senses.

Severing diplomatic relations with Germany did not mean that we should be compelled to go further and declare war. It required that there be some overt act to make that last step necessary.

That overt act has been committed.

It is not at all necessary for this government to prove that the Housatanic, whose loss is told in these columns, this morning, was sunk by a German submarine or that she was sunk unlawfully.

Under the threat made by Germany and which she put into almost instant execution, the burden of proof is on Germany to show that it was not a German boat that sunk the Housatanic and that the vessel was on an unlawful errand. When a man threatens the life of another and that other is almost instantly murdered, the suspicion immediately attaches to the one who made the threats, and it requires some evidence to remove the belief that he was the man who committed the deed. In this case, there is no one else who would profit by the sinking of an American vessel; there is no one else who has made any threats, such as now have been carried out.

Germany stands convicted of having committed the overt act, which means war. She cannot, if she desires to do so, evade the responsibility; she cannot excuse it. She has wantonly imperiled the lives of American citizens, and she must answer for her crime against our sovereignty.

"Thrice armed is he that hath his quarrel just." Patiently, with a patience that has approached the divine, this country has represented to Germany that she was pursuing a course that would awaken and finally destroy the friendly feelings that had always been maintained between the two countries. Month after month, until the sum of them has gone into the years, we have reasoned with Germany. We pointed out her intolerable aggressions, we have told her that we could not always submit to her and would not always submit to conditions imposed on us by a war with which we were not interested, and that our national rights could not be limited, even by her necessities.

She has made specific promises, as solemn as one nation can make to another; promises that heretofore have bound the national honor, that she would not again sin against us—and we get this, that she will not accord us the right to legitimate occupation of the seas, that she does not hesitate to destroy our ships and imperil the lives of our citizens.

The issue is made up. There is no recourse but the last appeal that any self respecting nation can make and that is the resort to arms.

With a clear conscience, with the belief that we are right and the knowledge that we have not sought this quarrel, America will declare war, either on the incident or a similar one, that is bound to occur almost immediately, and will take what fortune war may have in store for her. The people of this country are mentally and in heart ready for the conflict. They will be far from welcoming it, but it having been forced upon them, they will do all that beseemeth men to preserve national unity, national integrity and national liberty.

With adjournment of congress only a month off, here comes the kaiser and kicks up a muss that may call for an extra session. Billy is certainly the world's trouble maker.

Somebody is preaching on the "Confessions of a Society Man." That's nothing new. You can hear that kind of a confession about any time two or three young men get together.

Not even the prospect of war can distract the attention of the Dade county man from the fact that the next really great event will be the Dade County Fair.

Matters are at an acute stage when it is thought necessary to close the great port of New York. No explanation of the action has been made, but we may rest assured that the order would not have been given without cause.

WILL EVENTUALLY AID DADE COUNTY

Concerning all that the earliest reports say of the damage inflicted on Dade county by the unprecedented cold of the past day or two, this section is yet in a better situation than any county in the state, and those reports can reasonably be discounted to a certain degree.

It is too early to know, certainly, whether the citrus fruit industry of the central part of the state has again been badly damaged. It is not believed that old trees in the orange belt have been destroyed, but it is certain that young trees and young growth have been destroyed in every section of the state outside of Dade county and Broward county, where oranges and grapefruit trees are grown. It could not be otherwise if the temperature was at all accurately reported.

Fortunately for this section of the state there has been a long, dry spell which has had the effect of putting citrus fruit trees in good condition to withstand cold. The sap has not been running freely, and in this county very little, if any new, growth has yet been put on by the trees. Which means that the cold could only act on the old wood, which it could not damage at the temperatures recorded.

We do not rejoice that the great state industry has been injured, if it has. On the contrary we sympathize with those who have lost and with the sections whose progress has been retarded by the untoward accident of Friday and yesterday.

But it is well to point out that again the reputation of Dade county as the only safe section of the state to grow oranges and grapefruit has again been vindicated. When the great freezes of 1894 and 1895 devastated the central part of the state, this country was immediately recognized as the coming field for the industry. This section, to a very large degree, owes its first impetus toward development to the fact that many citrus fruit growers came here after having been frozen out in other parts of the state.

Much the same result will follow the wave of cold that has swept over the country and the state. Attention will be more strongly directed to Dade county, and citrus fruit growers will come here in the certainty of finding a section where cold will not interfere with their chosen business. This will be especially true of those who specialize in grapefruit. It is generally acknowledged that the Dade county product is the peer of any grown in the state, and that the Florida grapefruit is vastly superior to that grown anywhere else in the world. Even California grants that claim.

Truck growers in Dade county who have lost their crops still have time to re-plant, and many will begin again tomorrow, to get into the northern markets at the inevitable higher prices. In this respect, again, the county is much better off than any others of the state, who will not have time to meet the emergency.

On the whole, while Dade county has met with great loss, it is not irreparable and there is nothing particularly discouraging in the prospects before us.

REGULAR SOLDIERS.

Traveling evangelists are not always popular in Florida, and perhaps not anywhere else. A paper on the west side of the state asks the very pertinent question why it is that these evangelists always find that the town in which they think they are called to minister, temporarily, a sink of iniquity and the gateway to hell, while the ministers who are permanently located, who year after year striv to build up a character and Christian charity, have only words of pride for the communities in which they live and work.

It may be remembered Billy Sunday is rather a glaring example of the evangelist who first points out the terrible iniquities of the place in which he is preaching and then lambasts the men whom he holds responsible for the alleged conditions. The lesser lights pursue the same tactics in arraigning sinners and reforming communities.

Perhaps the answer might be that the regular settled ministers do not dare to make the same sort of campaign, but that answer would be untrue.

Take the ministers of this country, over, and there is not a set of men who will more determinedly do their duty, or who are braver in sacrificing themselves. They are not afraid.

But they do regard the kindly amenities of Christianity and endeavor to lead rather than to drive men into the right way of living. They follow, it would seem, much more closely the example of the Master, who was not a blusterer, who did not force men to His way of thinking, but who Himself lived the life He would have his followers live and who attempted to strengthen and develop character rather than gather crowds to tramp a sawdust trail.

The real work of the church is yet done by the regularly enlisted soldiers, who are always at their posts.

CAUSED DISCOMFORT AND DANGER.

It is a serious question whether, under conditions like those of the past day or two, a corporation that performs a public service should not be held to strict accountability for the performance of its duty.

A great many people of Miami have been induced to fit their houses with heating apparatus, designed for the use of gas, only, and they have no other means of heating. Still others have no means of cooking save by gas.

Yesterday and the day before at a time when heat was absolutely necessary several districts in the city were entirely without gas and no reason could be obtained, with the most persistent questioning, why the supply was practically cut off, and there is no seeming prospect that conditions will be remedied within any definite time.

At such times as have been presented within the past forty-eight hours, with the mercury hovering around the freezing point, to have the gas supply cut off imperils the health of many hundreds of people, to say nothing whatever of the discomfort inflicted on the patrons of the company, by the absence of heating fuel and by the fact that cooking was out of the question.

The gas company holds its rights by a franchise granted by the city. If at a critical time it fails in the performance of its contract with the people, the cause should be investigated, and if there is no other remedy the city should exercise its rights of eminent domain and take over this very essential public utility.

President Taft and Judge Hughes instantly announce their support of the president in the national crisis. The Colonel is yet to be heard from.

For obvious reasons the usual sea bathing was omitted, yesterday.

NATIONAL PRESS ON GERMAN NOTE

New York World.

There can be only one answer on the part of the United States to the new German submarine proclamation, and that answer should be made today. The German ambassador must receive his passports forthwith and diplomatic relations must cease at once. There should be no procrastination until the hand of the United States government is forced by premeditated murder and depredation. The president must carry out the terms of his own ultimatum, and do it so swiftly that Berlin can have no excuse for misunderstanding the purpose and policy of the American government. Having done that, the United States must adopt such measures as circumstances require for the protection of the lives and property of its citizens on the high seas. If this means actual war with Germany, so be it. We have made every concession to Germany that self-respect will permit, and all those concessions have proved to be in vain. To acquiesce in a resumption of ruthless submarine operations is to subject ourselves to the losses of war while depriving ourselves of the means of self-defense. That is intolerable. No peace is worth the price of abject national humiliation and degradation. No peace is worth the surrender of a nation's sovereign rights. If Germany wants war with the United States, let Germany have war with the United States. Our hands are clean.

Washington Post

The United States having flatly refused to accept the German version of international law and having given notice that the destruction of American life or shipping without warning would force the severance of diplomatic relations, it is impossible for this government to countenance the new rule which Germany seeks to impose. The words "all sea traffic will be opposed" are unmistakable in one sense, but in another they are obscure. It is clear that neutral shipping to the allies will be stopped, if possible, but it remains to be seen whether vessels having no taint of contraband will not only be stopped but sunk. If by "opposed" the German government means "destroyed," the United States and other neutrals must either abandon intercourse with the allies or be prepared for war with Germany. The hour appears to be at hand when the United States must decide, once for all, whether or not it will tolerate a change of sea law whereby the capture of merchant vessels is abandoned and their destruction supstituted.

New York Tribune

It would be hard to exaggerate the ominousness of the last German note. It reflects a state of mind bordering on desperation. Germany refuses any longer to recognize that the United States has any rights on the seas which she is bound to respect. The United States fought one war—the war of 1812—in behalf of the principle of the freedom of the seas. We cannot believe that it has so far lost its manhood as to hesitate when the challenge comes which will compel us to fight another.

New York Herald.

Instead of meeting the just demands of the United States, a truculent Prussianism makes open threat to sink on sight, and without pretense of warning, any and every American vessel found on the high seas, save only such occasional passenger steamships as accepts Berlin's dictum concerning the paths it shall take. Two years of note writing, two years of smug complacency over the resonancy of the written word have brought—this.

Even little Peterkin must see that it is a "glorious victory."

Louisville Courier-Journal

It is a direct challenge of war to the United States. That challenge should be accepted within twenty-four hours.

Philadelphia Record

It would be idle to ignore the fact that this new departure may have the most serious consequences for the United States.

Philadelphia Public Ledger

It is impossible to exaggerate the gravity of the issues raised by the German note of yesterday or to ignore the indisputable fact that it brings the United States . . . to the very verge of war.

Richmond Times-Dispatch

We assume it to be assured that President Wilson will hand Count Bernstorff his passports.

Indianapolis Star

The war rapidly is degenerating into a rough and tumble—in which the rights of neutrals and the laws of humanity count for nothing.

Pittsburgh Gazette Times

It amounts almost to a declaration of war. How long will President Wilson endure the official presence of Count von Bernstorff in America?

Boston Herald

Providence Journal

The world knows at last what Germany really means when she speaks of the freedom of the seas. Here is German militarism in its final flower.

San Francisco Chronicle

It is a desperate move, but America can and should do nothing until she is specifically injured.

Denver Post

This final step of Germany permits President Wilson to have no other choice than the severance of diplomatic relations altogether.

Worcester Telegram

It is a declaration of war against the United States, sent in the form of an insult which red-blooded Americans cannot stand for. It is the most astonishing paper ever issued by a government sustained by a sane people.

STRIKING INSTANCE OF MIAMI'S GREAT GROWTH

In the Magnificent Development of the Wonderful Riverside Heights District

To the thousands of visitors in Miami, nothing in all our wonderful city presents such a striking instance of Miami's remarkable growth than the strange meeting, on Twelfth street, of the busy business district with the beautiful, fully developed residence section of Riverside Heights. Just a few hundred yards beyond where the business district ends stands the entrance gate to the flourishing residential locality, half a minute's ride in an automobile, or a minute's ride on the street car! Probably in no other city, the country over is there a parallel to this phenomenal situation, and the astonishment of the visitor, which usually finds vent in the expression, "Why, never heard of such a thing as stepping out of the business district into the residence section of a city," is very natural under the circumstances.

A few years ago, when the Tatum Bros. Investment & Realty company purchased Riverside Heights (then the famous Lawrence Estate) the business section of the city extended only as far as avenue D. Since that time it has grown by leaps and bounds out Twelfth street. But all the time Riverside Heights has been keeping pace—growing with unprecedented rapidity under the vast developments made by the Tatums in transforming the large Lawrence Estate into a modern, high class residence locality. Now, side by side, on the principle thoroughfare of the city to the west, stand the two most rapidly developing sections—business and residence! They are divided by only a narrow strip of vacant property which is being held off the market and cannot be bought at any price. To this side, on the outskirts of the business section, a few unimproved lots, valued at thousands of dollars, have been transferred time and again at steadily mounting figures—on the other side, in beautiful Riverside Heights, the same lots may now be purchased for a fourth to a fifth as much, a condition which has created an unprecedented demand for Riverside Heights lots as residential sites, and for investment purposes.

The march of business out Twelfth street is forcing the homes back into Riverside Heights, the logical site for the new houses, and the building activities there show clearly how the city is growing. In every block are new houses in the various stages of construction, and each day or so sees a new one starting up.

Miami Belvederes.

In placing the residential section of Riverside Heights on the market, Tatum Bros. have made a specialty of building Miami Belvederes, a distinctive type of tropical bungalow, and have expended nearly two hundred thousand dollars on this exclusive feature of Riverside Heights alone. These picturesque homes, which have been sold to private home owners, have been greatly enhanced in value by the improvements made by the purchasers, and many of them have been beautified with hundreds of varieties of tropical trees and shrubbery. While the Miami Belvederes all follow the same general style of architecture, each is decidedly different from the other, possessing an individuality of line and color which makes a most charming effect in the ensemble,

Into all of these typical Riverside homes have been incorporated special built-in conveniences designed to give the utmost comfort to home dwellers in the tropics. These built-in fixtuers really take the form of handsome pieces of furniture, and are finished to harmonize with the interior finish of the Belvederes, mission and enamel. Built-in buffets, china closets, wardrobes, kitchen cabinets and book cases are to be seen in all of them, while in a number of them recently completed there has been introduced a decided innovation, a full sized bed, complete with springs that do not fold, which is concealed when not in use by an ingenious sliding arrangement that gently disposes of it under a handsome writing desk. Open air sleeping windows, which let in the pure, fresh air, win unstinted praise. There are half a dozen or more Miami Belvederes now in the course of construction in Riverside Heights, and so popular are these homes, and so great the demand for them, that they are usually bought and in occupancy within a few weeks after their completion.

Street Car Service.

Tatum Bros., owners of Riverside Heights, were the original promotors of Miami's metropolitan street car service, and this section enjoys a regular fifteen minute schedule, the cars running through the center of Riverside Heights. At various places along the car line benches have been provided for the convenience of residents waiting for the cars, and although Riverside Heights is the closest-in sub-division to the city, there is nothing left to be desired in the way of transportation facilities.

Rock and Paved Streets.

Two miles or more of concrete sidewalks, five feet wide, have been laid in Riverside Heights to date. There are upwards of ten miles of rock streets, and nearly two miles of oiled paved streets running through the property. New streets and drives are constantly being graded, a small army of construction men being kept busy on this development work and on beautifying the lots, many of which have been set to fruit, shade and ornamental trees and tropical shrubbery. Two thousand rose bushes have just been set out .

The Riverside school, a modern concrete school building, has been erected at a cost of thousands of dollars, on Lawrence Drive, within easy reach of all residents.

On Tamiami Trail.

The southern boundary line of Riverside Heights faces on the Tamiami Trail, the now famous cross-state highway of Florida.

Elevated—With River Breeze

The elevation of Riverside Heights, fifteen to sixteen feet, gives to the section wonderfully pure air, and a cool, mild breeze from the river which blows incessantly, rendering the locality absolutely free from mosquitoes. Along the river front, the sub-division has a number of extremely beautiful tracts. It is on these river-front tracts that the greater portion of the old, full bearing citrus fruit trees for which the Lawrence Estate was famed, are growing. None of large river-front tracts has yet passed into the hands of individual owners, although it is quite probable that the current realty season will see a number of them transferred. Mr. B. B. Tatum stating to a Herald reporter that already one prospective purchaser is highly desirous of securing one, and is only holding off his purchase until such a time as he can get in communication with someone else desirous of purchasing an adjoining tract.

Ball Park.

Tatum park, now known throughout the country as the winter training quarters of the Boston Braves, is one of the large developments on which thousands of dollars have been expended, and on which thousands more will be expended during the next four years to insure that these national league ball players make this their training quarters during that time. The diamond on Tatum park is one of the finest in the entire country, and the buildings and surroundings of the park ideally arranged with a view to comfort and space, for players and spectators alike.

Realty Sales Brisk.

During the week just closed Tatum Bros. report the sale of seventeen residence lots to individual purchasers, at prices ranging from four hundred dollars to fifteen hundred dollars, while one entire block was transferred to a private owner for the consideration of twelve thousand dollars.

A significant fact in connection with the sales constantly being made in Riverside Heights is that many of the transfers are to prominent local business men, closely in touch with local conditions and keenly alive to the increasing valuation of Riverside property.

History Repeats tself

The remarkable growth of Riverside Heights is a repetition of that of Riverside proper, which is now hardly distinguishable from West Twelfth street, so compactly is it built up. Tatum Bros, originally promoted Riverside ,even to the extent of building the Twelfth street bridge, which, for a long time after it was built, the city of Miami did not purchase, acquiring it in comparatively recent years. The original investors in Riverside property have made extremely large profits on their early investments, and the great demand now apparent for lots in Riverside Heights, just beyond, promises as great profits, if not greater, to those exercising the foresight to purchase while prices are within reach of those in moderate means.

Riverside Heights is conservatively valued at one million dollars, but prominent real esttae men visiting Miami, after having been shown through the section, estimate that the developments taking place constantly enhance its value half again.

Tatum Brothers.

The four Tatum Bros. who are the largest and oldest realty operators in Florida, have been successful in all their undertakings, and have handled many of the most important realty deals in the history of the state during the last thirty years. They have been instrumental in interesting scores of capitalists in the great future of Miami, and in bringing millions of dollars of capital to the city. Their realty holdings are very extensive, comprising some of the costliest properties in this vicinity.

During the past week alone they transferred listings totaling $70,000, much of the property changing hands being highly improved city and subdivision real estate.

NEWS FROM THE PAN AMERICAN

Thrift From a Business Woman's Standpoint

The subject of Thrift is so broad, and has so many phases that there is little wonder at the numerous articles written about it. Thrift, as the average person first thinks of it means merely the getting and saving of money; but I will endeavor to point out to you other ways of Thrift which seem to me, as a business woman, just as important as actually earning and saving money. Our motto is, How to Earn; How to Save; How to Spend. Our presence here at the college indicates that we are here to prepare ourselves for a greater earning capacity on the part of some; and for those who are just starting in the business world, the training received here means the stepping stones to either success or failure, just as we ourselves choose to make it. There is no such thing as luck in business. Success or failure comes as the natural result of our own efforts. Therefore, by being prepared when we enter the business world at this day and age, when efficiency is the constant demand—and this demand greater than ever—we are not only able to command higher salaries than the untrained individual, but we are able to earn those salaries by giving value for value received.

The next part of our motto, How to Save, brings to mind a number of thoughts. Saving pertains not only to money, but also to our little extravagances, which at the time being apparently amount to nothing, but at the end of the year will run into dollars. Some of these extravagances are the careless waste of stationery, postage stamps, pen points, ink, needless use of electricity, thoughtless destruction of office equipment, and last but most important, the trifling of valuable time. When a person wastes time, he wastes money, for he is wasting time in which he might be doing something to produce money. We may hear the comment, "Well, that isn't wasting anything for me, and my employer doesn't care." In reply I would say, that is not the argument, and your employer does care. An employer watches with growing interest, the assistant who is mindful of these details, and son finds him to be an asset to the business; at the same time the interest of the employe is becoming deeper, and he is not long in noticing his rise on the ladder of success. Not only does this saving of little things apply to the office, but to private life as well. We must save the little things and avoid needless out-lay before we will have the opportunity of saving the larger ones.

Spending our salaries or incomes of whatever sources they may be, is an entirely personal matter. Each and everyone of us likes to "Spend" his money, and every individual has certain obligations to meet; but we are not speaking of necessary expenditures. We are discussing the unnecessary spending which we all so much enjoy. It is only human nature to enjoy luxuries, and to obtain these we must give our money in exchange. However, we should not cultivate a habit for luxuries to such an extent that our expenditures in this direction become an extravagance. Waste and extravagance will never get anyone anywhere. Ask yourselves this question. Does Thrift Pay?

Prof. A. H. Perry, and Miss Audrey are expected to return to Miami on or about the 20th of this month.

Jennie Harden, Mildred Bivens, Marguerite Brigham, and Katrina Brietwisch have started their transcription this week.

The picnic at the beach last Saturday was a great success. The students went to the beach in automobiles, leaving the college at 2 p. m. The afternoon was spent in swimming, taking pictures, and in fact, doing everything that goes toward making an afternoon at the beach a pleasant one. About five o'clock the boys carried a long table out under some cocoanut trees, and built a fire to roast the weenies. Then is when things began to look good to the most of us. That table was loaded with salads, pickles, good fresh rolls, weenies innumerable, several kinds of fruit, and of all most important—the sticks on which to roast wenies. Everyone was the possessor of an appetite fitting such a feast, and by the time darkness had fully fallen upon the place, there were far from as many good things to be seen on that table. After supper the crowd went to the casino and danced. As a whole, everyone seemed to be having the best time the occasion afforded.

The Freeze Makes Dade County Groves Florida's Best Bet

The severe damage and ruin to the citrus industry elsewhere in the state will make a good grove in Cocoanut Grove a veritable gold mine.

Think of the profits to be made from Grapefruit with the tremendous decrease in production caused by the freeze.

I still have several excellent groves to offer, untouched by the freeze, that even under ordinary circumstances would pay a handsome profit.

It's a great opportunity for those who act quickly.

GEORGE BRANDES 75 YEARS OLD

Copenhagen, Feb. 3.—George Brandes, Denmark's leading man of letters, will celebrate his seventy-fifth birthday anniversary tomorrow. He is a native of Copenhagen and of Hebrew parentage. At 20 he had studied law, philosophy and the arts with sufficient assiduity to shine brightest among the brilliant young men of the University of Copenhagen, where he was educated. He has been publishing for more than half a century and his work has covered the entire range of literature from poetry and the essay and novel to history and philosophy. While he has not labored of late with the energy of his younger years, he is far from being an idle man. Recently he has attracted attention by engaging in polemic arguments about the war with the famous Frenchman, Clemenceau, and has been accused in France of unfairness and partiality.

TO TRY NEGRO WHO ESCAPED LYNCHING

Murray, Ky., Feb. 3.—The authorities are taking precautions to prevent trouble when the negro, Lube Martin, is placed on trial here Monday for the slaying of a police officer. Martin is the negro who narrowly escaped lynching last month when his case was called for trial and a postponement was granted by the court. An armed mob gathered with the announced purpose of taking the negro from the authorities and dealing out summary punishment. His life was saved only by the timely arrival of Governor Stanley, who threatened to call out the militia unless quiet was restored.

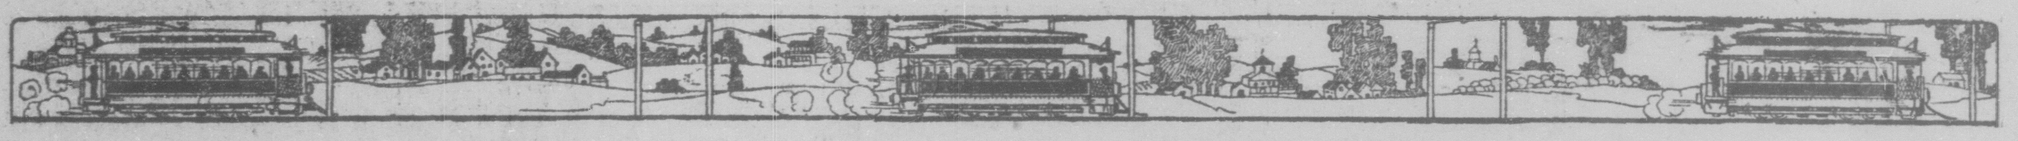

TO TAKE CHURCH CENSUS OF NEW YORK

New York, Feb. 3.—A religious census of unparalleled extent will be taken here tomorrow, when 55,000 workers, representing Hebrew, Catholic and Protestant affiliations and preferences of each one of the city's inhabitants. At the same time, the canvassers will distribute invitations to attend the churches, synagogues and Sunday schools.

TAKE THE STREET CAR TO

BEAUTIFUL RIVERSIDE HEIGHTS

WHEN you alight from the street car, take plenty of time to look the property over. You will find plenty of benches placed all about at frequent intervals for your convenience in resting, and the pure, fresh air and exercise will do you worlds of good. Notice as you go the pretty parked effects on the larger boulevards and how the lots are being beautified with shade trees and flowering shrubbery. Get to the highest point and look back toward the Bay. Note how solidly the city is built up to the bridge. Take into consideration that the few vacant lots available for purchase there are bringing four and five thousand dollars, and that the same lots in Riverside Heights, just beyond, can be bought from a thousand to fifteen hundred dollars. Note particularly the new buildings going up on every hand. Remember each new house adds to the valuations of Riverside Heights property. Don't let the great finished beauty of the many handsome Miami Belvederes now in occupancy escape you. Be sure you go through one of the newly completed Belvederes not occupied yet, and see the distinctive built-in conveniences which are making these homes so popular. THEN ASK YOURSELF IF YOU CAN AFFORD TO IGNORE THE OPPORTUNITY RIVERSIDE HEIGHTS OFFERS YOU TO BUY NOW AT MODERATE PRICES, AND MAKE THE MOST PROFITALE INVESTMENT POSSIBLE IN ANY RESIDENTIAL SECTION IN THIS CITY AT THE PRESENT TIME.

ROYAL PALM STATE PARK NOTES

Many visitors motored to the park this last week, some to spend the day, bringing their picnic lunch, others only driving through, enjoying the tropical scenery from the car, or perhaps stop long enough to register their names with the warden, Mr. Chas. A. Mosier, who is usually at hand to give any desired information regarding the surroundings.

Those who get the most real pleasure from a trip to the park are the nature lovers who take time to walk through the beautiful trails which are cut through the hammock just wide enough for single file. One can walk in comfort and safety, and gain an "inside view" of the dense growth. It is a revelation to those who have not been through before to see the wonderful enormous live oak trees with their tons of silver Spanish moss, the magnificent views that suddenly open before one, where Mr. Mosier has cleared away the tangled mass to form a long vista to some unusually high palm or wide spreading oak. One realizes how little can be known of what the jungle really contains without this experience. If the explorer is fortunate to have Mr. Mosier act as guide, the tramp is doubly enjoyed, as he has a wealth of information at hand regarding the more rare and beautiful plants and trees.

Mrs. Hiram Byrd is planning to visit the park again on February 3rd to take the second bird census, and will continue to make her interesting reports regularly, on the birds and other subjects found in the park.

The following is a partial list of those registering between January 17th and 23rd, inclusive.

CLUB NOTES.

Melbourne Woman's Club plans to entertain Miss Lena Conklin, and have her sing for this, Melbourne being her native town. They are also working for a reciprocity meeting in March, and an Audubon meeting, when they hope to have Miss Goodhue with them.

Tampa Civic Association gave a lovely Flower Ball at the Tampa Bay Hotel last week. Many of the children of the city participated, dressed to represent flowers. Prizes were given for the finest costumes. The Grand March, when the prizes were awarded, was especially pretty, followed by many fancy dances, before the ball, proper, began. Before the opening of the ball, four young ladies, exquisitely dressed, passed among the gentlemen selling boutonierres, from which they realized a fine sum for the association.

Wednesday afternoon, January 31, West Tampa Woman's Club held an open meeting, to give the Latin American women an opportunity to meet Mrs. Susana E. Maderos, of Havana, Cuba, chairman of the Philanthropic department of the Havana Woman's Club. Mrs. Maderos will be pleasantly remembered by those clubwomen who attended the recent convention in Miami, as she was a visitor to the convention.

Mrs. William Jennings Bryan has been delivering a series of lectures for the Federation, upon the subject of "Votes for Both." Mrs. Bryan lectured at West Palm Beach on the 24th, at Daytona, Palmetto Club, on the 25th, before the Womans' Club of Palatka on the 26th, and for the Springfield Improvement Association of Jacksonville on the 27th. While in Jacksonville, Mrs. Bryan was the guest of the Federation's president, Mrs. W. S. Jennings. Mrs. Bryan was called to Tennessee, to speak before the legislature and upon her return will speak in Ft. Pierce and Ft. Lauderdale, enroute to Miami, her home.

Mrs. Ella Flagg Young has been obliged to resign the chairmanship of the department of education of the General Federation, owing to press of other duties. Miss Mary E. Parker of Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio, has been appointed by the executive committee, and has accepted this important office.

MOVING PICTURE CIRCUIT.

Jacksonville, Fla.,
January 26, 1917.

The Woman's Club of Jacksonville is endeavoring to establish a number of motion picture circuits throughout the state for special children's pictures, in the effort to secure positively accredited pictures for children's matinees, and we are writing to ask your co-operation and assistance in doing this.

We are hoping to establish a circulating children's picture bureau in Jacksonville, which may be done if a sufficient number of circuits is established throughout the state. This would necessitate agreements between—or among—certain towns, by means of which children's matinees would be established on different days to the picture might be sent from one town to an adjoining one, and displayed there the next day, or the day after. It is desired to give each picture at least four engagements in one week.

Will your club help establish these circuits, and thus forward the national movement for better pictures by taking the following steps:

1. Gain the co-operation of your local motion picture manager, and secure his consent to establish a children's matinee, permitting you or or some committee from your club to censor the pictures before they are shown to the children.

2. Get the co-operation of the mothers of the town, and their promise to patronize the pictures, and so make them a financial success.

3. Select a day in consultation with the local manager that will permit the sending of the picture on from one town to another, so that a circuit may be established, and the picture be used at least four times in one week.

4. In order to facilitate matters and quickly perfect this arrangement, will you let us hear from you at your earliest convenience, stating whether you are willing to enter into this or a similar agreement? Of course only one town in each circuit may have Saturday; so will you also kindly state whether your club, the mothers and the local picture manager are willing to give one afternoon during the week to a children's program, rather than Saturday morning, as is usually done?

A list of eleven circuits is enclosed, which has been arranged in consultation with a businss man who knows the relative location of the towns geographically and also with reference to transportation.

The local picture manager in Jacksonville suggests that it might be well to leave the selection of time of program to the local manager in each place. This would of course be submitted to the club undertaking the direction of the pictures for approval.

A copy of this letter is being sent to the Woman's Club in each town on the enclosed list, also to the motion picture manager, of each town, and we are hoping that this plan will appeal to you, and that you will join with us in the effort to give the children of the state good clean entertaining educational pictures.

Sincerely yours,
MRS. EDWARD ANDERSON,
Chairman M. P. Committee, Woman's Club of Jacksonville.
MRS. FRANK E. JENNINGS.
Chairman M. P. Committee, Fla Fed. Women's Clubs.

Dear Madame President:

We enclose a circular letter which the Woman's Club is sending out to the various Woman's organizations throughout the state, in the hope that we may establish a number of motion picture circuits and in that way secure a definite and regular supply of attractive pictures for Jacksonville.

May we call your attention to the children's matinee which has been established by the Woman's Club with the cordial co-operation of Mr. Sparks, the local motion picture manager, for each Saturday morning at the Imperial Theatre at 10:30 o'clock?

This program will not be continued unless the patronage justifies the expense and the effort. It is a business proposition and the Woman's Club is depending upon the co-operation of other Woman's organizations, particularly the Mother's Club, to help make this a moral and financial success.

Will you help us in this effort to secure better pictures by giving the patronage that will create the demand?

Sincerely yours,
Motion Picture Committee Woman's Club,
MRS. EDWARD ANDERSON,
Chairman.

MRS. WM. JENNINGS BRYAN'S LECTURE ON SUFFRAGE OR VOTES FOR BOTH.

On Saturday afternoon, January 27th, the First Baptist church in Jacksonville was crowded with an enthusiastic audience, to listen to the federation's speaker on the subject now engaging women's attention everywhere. Every available seat was filled and many were turned away.

Those who have heard Mrs. Bryan do not need to be told of her charming manner, her gentle tones and pleasant and witty sentences, that never antagonize, but win fresh friends to the cause after every time she speaks. She told of the great antagonism, in early days, that existed against the use of matches, whereby a man could walk through his enemy's field and set fire to his crops and buildings; against cookstoves, that would confine the gases until there would be explosions; against baby-buggies, in which babies would be bundled and wheeled out for the day by the mothers, who would thus neglect home, children and husband. Similar protests are made against women voting, she says, and stated that most of man's opposition to new movements resulted from the inertia that kept him from investigating. She conceded that woman's place is in the home, and that man's place is in the office, or business surroundings. She showed how man, in spite of his usually well-fulfilled duty of earning a living for his family, has time for occasional vacations, for recreation, for keeping informed on public affairs, and even for occasionally voting, and concluded that woman might also keep her place in the home, perform her duties creditably, and still be able to slip a small white ballot into the ballot-box a few times a year.

Mrs. Bryan told of one little brown-eyed lady who was elected to serve on a school board. She began visiting the schools, to the mutual surprise of the schools and the other board-members, who had never had time to visit the schools. The other board members soon began visiting schools, also. She investigated the complaints of several janitors, one of whom had more tons of coal to shovel than the rest, another more rooms to sweep, another more walks to shovel fre of snow. She went to the janitors with pad and pencil, learned how many rooms each swept, how many tons of coal each handled, how many walks each cleaned, took her information to the board, and had a scale of salaries prepared, which pleased all janitors, and the board as well. This was one instance, Mrs. Bryan said, where woman showed her ability to look after petty details, the housekeeping of civil affairs, where her long training in keeping her hand on the multiple interests connected with running a home successfully, would make her an invaluable ally of man in the larger affairs of city, state and nation. Woman was intended to be man's counterpart morally and intellectually, she said, as well as physically.

The lecture was given under the auspices of the Springfield Improvement association, whose president, Mrs. M. A. Clonts, very gracefully presided. Seated on the platform with Mrs. Clonts and Mrs. Bryan were Mrs. W. S. Jennings, president of the Federation, Mrs. H. B. Minium, corresponding secretary, and the presidents of the Jacksonville Woman's club, South Jacksonville Woman's club, Pan-Hellenic association, Federation of Mothers' clubs, and two state chairmen of the Federation. The meeting was opened by singing of the Star Spangled Banner, Miss Bertha M. Foster, of the School of Musical art at the organ. Rev. Dr. Hobson, pastor of the church, offered prayer. At the close of the lecture, the official song of the Federation, "The Suwanee River" was sung, followed by the benediction by Dr. French, pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

Mrs. W. S. Jennings, President Florida Federation Women's Clubs
November 23, 1196.

In compliance with the spirit of the law granting Royal Palm State Park to the Florida Federation of Women's clubs, this Paradise Key, to be known hereafter as Royal Palm State Park, by the authority vested in me as president of the Florida Federation of Women's clubs, I do hereby dedicate to the perpetual use and enjoyment of the people of all the world; to the conservation of the flora, and also as a sanctuary for all bird and animal life, and to be properly guarded from depredation and to be perpetually kept for park purposes by the Federation. Should the Federation at any time fail in this charge, the park shall pass into the custody of an organization which would preserve it to the people perpetually for park purposes.

and welcome to our Royal Palms, our noble Oaks and all our Tropical Treasures!

Dream Has Come True.

Behold us monarchs of all we survey, the proud and happy owners of the only tropical reservation in the whole United States.

You will wish, I feel sure to have me give a brief summary of our year's work since the Royal Palm Hammock became our very own by grant of the 1915 legislature to the Federation of Woman's clubs. An equal acreage of land which was donated by Mrs. Flagler as an endowment tract, has since then been exchanged for a much more favorably and contiguous tract so that in all we are now owners of 1,920 acres, half of which is park proper.

The legislature passed an act exempting our park from taxation but unfortunately did not grant the appropriation asked for.

Your Park Advisory committee representing nearby clubs has held frequent meetings and has consulted with the president and board of directors when any important decision was being considered.

Thus, at our very first meeting, February 24th, we urged that a competent warden should be immediately employed, and your chairman secured in person the consent of the state board, in executive session at Daytona to this recommendation. Mr. Chas. A. Mosier has served in this capacity since March 1st. He has demonstrated in most convincing fashion the needs and possibilities of our park. During a particularly dry season he has put out and checked the spread of dangerous fires. Without being officially appointed a deputy sheriff, his presence has sufficed to stop depradation and hunting. He has cut miles of trails, revealing many hidden beauty spots. He has collected thousands of palm seeds and raised as many seedlings and has propagated many rare and useful plants. He has made our park a natural bird scantuary, at a great discomfort, and often entirely marooned, he has cheerfully stuck to his post and in every way more than justified our initial act.

The next important undertaking was to persuade the county commissioners to assist us financially. On April 29th a petition was presented in person by our chairman and three others, and the motion made by Mr. Hinson to appropriate $1,000 for our first year's expenses was unanimously carried.

The plan we have pursued of sending to all clubs, and others as well, card strips as dime containers, with the object of collecting a mile of dimes, was proposed by Mrs. T. E. Evans, our entertainment chairman, today.

The 128 clubs of Florida have been liberally supplied with strips. Aggregate returns at 10 cents per capita were computed at $6,356. Actual gross returns to date, including several large individual gifts are $1,240.33, October 26th. Many clubs have not yet responded and many pledges are outstanding. A park day, on the first meeting in December is we hope, to be observed by all clubs, when collections can be made and our fund largely augmented.

We have to thank the press for making the park a live issue. Especial mention must be made of the Tropic Magazine for its very liberal aid in issuing a special number containing two on table articles and giving us 50 per cent discount.

Several special donations enabled us to send out one thousand copies. The Florida Grower and Mr. Edgar A. Wright added generously to our funds and offer a rebate for park benefit, on all subscriptions. These two papers, copies of which may be had at our exhibit table I most heartily recommend to your notice and trust they may find the support they deserve, in return for favors shown.

The Cocoanut Grove Audubon club has pledged $10 annually towards the warden's salary. The Chicago Motor Club sent enthusiastic commendation and a liberal donation. Let Audubon clubs and Motor clubs please take note and go and do likewise.

On May 14th a park picnic was held, about thirty automobile parties attending.

Exhibits of maps, photos and literary matter were placed in the Dade County Fair at Miami at the Biennial in New York in charge of Miss Mira Lloyd S. Buck, at the Appalachian congress and at a number of local clubs.

At our committee meeting June 28th, plans for a warden's lodge were considered and sub-committees were named to take up various phases of work in detail. The difficulties encountered by road constructors have been the source of great concern, as construction of the lodge has necessarily depended upon being able to haul materials. Our indefatigable building committee reports as follows:

October 22, 1916.

"The building committee of the Royal Palm Park lodge took up the work after the entire park committee had gone over the matter and outlined in a general way what it would approve as a lodge for the park, to serve as a home for the warden, a sheltered and resting place for visitors and a lodging place for students and scientists who wished to study the park at close range. This committee found that the original plan must be cut in many ways as the sum that could be raised for this purpose was much less than was anticipated and it has been decided to build a rustic wood building large enough to meet the present demands, equipped with its own electric light plant, water plant, a garage for two cars and an aseptic tank for disposing of sewage. Besides the general committee meetings, the building committee has met for discussion on the work six times, four of these meetings were held with Mrs. Jennings, our president. On Friday, September 29th, the chairman went with Mrs. Jennings to the park for the purpose of selecting a site for the lodge. Fifteen letters have been received by the chairman from Mrs. Jennings in which the lodge was the partial, if not whole, topic of the letter, and she has had copies of as many more written by the state president to others concerning the work. The Railey-Milan Hardware company Miami, gave us a splendid discount on the bill for windows and doors. The McDonald Lumber company is to furnish the rough cypress siding and the entire bill of wall board at materially reduced prices. The Homestead Mercantile committee has made a low price on roofing which we have accepted. The Womans' club of Princeton has donated two thousand feet of best Dade county pine flooring, and also planning to completely furnish a Princeton rest room in the lodge. The members of this committee are Mrs. T. V. Moore, Miami, Mrs. Geo. Taylor, Princeton, Mrs. E. C. Loveland, chairman, Homestead."

We acknowledge the courtesy of the McCrary company in agreeing to make a turn out in road, thereby preserving intact several of our most beautiful oaks.

Financial plans enabling the board to build lodge have been only authorized. Certain loans will be required. As a supplementary device to raise money for our lodge; two thousand chain letters appealing for aid have been issued; receipts from this source amount to $222.95, October 26th. You are invited to examine our exhibit and learn from those in charge many things about our park, which I have not time to mention. We wish to urge that the state be memoralized and besought to grant us an ample appropriation in order that we may be relieved from efforts to secure support and be free to carry out the proper development schemes.

Our hopes are glowing and far reaching. We wish not only to guard but to enhance in many ways the beauties of our heritage so that it may be a joy forever. Quite inevitably we shall be beset with vexations and problems when our endowment lands are in cropping condition; rigid rules will have to be enforced to protect the park from fires and from encroachments of campers and truckers with the insect pests accompanying them.

In view of all these facts and circumstances we wish to urge that a strong committee of suitably selected scientific men be asked to confer and advice on the best policy for the future. A consistent continuity of supervision and the very best advisory aid obtainable seem indispensable.

In closing my report I must add one personal note, for I feel that we can never sufficiently express our appreciation of Prof. Simpson's inspiring words and steadfast encouragement, and our hope is that he will ever thus continue to point the way. In our far ancestral past, rare and beautiful sylvan retreats were est apart for worship of the most High, and now as we dedicate our park, let us hope that kindred inspirations may fill our minds, and that we, and all those who come after us may find here a revelation of deep delight and may go forth refreshed and invigorated in spirit and in deed.

NOTE.

Since the above was written by Mrs. Gifford, there has been $1,000 received from the commissioners of Dade county, also other amounts not yet turned to the treasurer, bringing the total to $2,575. Among these donations is one especially to be appreciated, from the children, the Springfield Junior Civic league, of Jacksonville, $10.

There has also been some progress made in securing a 60 foot right-of-way from the city limits of Homestead to the park, over the Ingraham highway. The representative of the company which owns the largest tracts on the way, as well as several smaller owners have assured us that they will deed the necessary amount of land as soon as the deeds are ready.

MRS. E. C. LOVELAND,
Acting chairman.

NOTICE

Ozona, Fla., 1-25-17.

Dear Madame President:

Will you kindly send returns from the sale of Christmas seals at your earliest convenience? It will greatly facilitate our work and that of the Florida Anti-Tuberculosis association. Reports that have come in are most gratifying. However, forty-four of the clubs have yet to report.

To be trite, do it now. Sincerely,

GRACE WHITFORD, M. D.,
Chairman Public Health Department, Florida Federation of Women's Clubs.

LIBARIAN'S NOTICE

Several of our traveling libraries are ready to move, or will be soon; one on lower east coast, one at Muscogee, in extreme northwestern Florida, and two at San Mateo, in Putnam county.

One library, now in librarian's hands for renovation, has been in constant use for three years and out of its eighty volumes ten were found entirely worn out, and sixty were in need of repairs. Most of them are so well worth keeping that the librarian was willing to spend much time in repairing them. She only mentions this to show you the need for new books for replenishing the cases, as they come in for renovation.

We have seventeen libraries now in service, and have the promise of five complete new ones, cases and all.

One of the seventeen is a "Woman Citizen's" library of twelve beautifully illustrated volumes, to be used by any club, or political science study class. This is placed at present, but is open for future engagements, at 50 cents a month and express.

The fee for the larger cases, containing from sixty to eighty volumes each, is $1 for four months and the incoming freight charges.

If you are interested either in giving or getting books, please write to the librarian

(Miss) MARY J. CROSBY,
San Mateo, Florida.

THE GARRULTY OF YOUTH

Writer Says Young Men Easily Outtalk Women.

We men are accustomed to deride the garrulity of women; yet doubt if any women under the sun could compete in loquacity with a pair or trio or quartet of young men engaged in the exchange of views on metaphysics, literature or art. We two or three or four spent ambrosial nights. There were no problems too knotty, no reaches of hypothesis too vast for us to attempt.

That was a time of life to remember, when the mind was growing like corn in hot weather. t is a pelasant thought that all over the land there are little bands of youths doing as we did. I get wind of one onw and then—some boy with all the fire and foolishness, some girl with all the sensibility and sentimentality, by a chance look or word carries me back, as a whiff of lilac or mignonette can transport us into our childhood.

He is a poor man who never was foolish. It is appalling to think over what he has missed. am glad that there was a time when I was omniscient; that there was a time when an opinion was attractive because it was radical, and the "miserable little virtue of prudence" was not a part of my moral code. I think it makes me more charitable toward youth. Whether it does or not, there can be no doubt that the surest corrective and sweetener of life is a vivid memory.—Robert M. Gray, in the Atlantic Monthly.

PARABLE COST A BISHOPRIC

Refusal to Suppress Pigeon Parable Punished by British King

When Paley, the great English philosopher, was informed that King George III would never permit him to be made a bishop if he persisted in publishing his parable of the pigeons he is said to have replied. "Well, bishop or no bishop, let it stand."

It stood. One hundred and thirty-one years have passed since Paley refused to surrender to the prejudices of the king who made the United States independent, but his parable still has meaning. Here is the version given by the Internation Journal of Ethics:

"If you should see a flock of pigeons in a field of corn, and if (instead of each picking where and what it liked, take just as much as it wanted and no more) you should see 99 of them gathering all they got into a heap, keepin this heap for one, and that the weakest, perhaps worst, pigeon of the flock; sitting around and looking on all the winter, while this one was devouring, throwing about and wasting it; and if a pigeon more hardy or hungry than the rest touched a grain of the hoard all the others instantly flying upon it and tearing it to pieces; if you should see this, you would see nothing more than what is every day practiced and established among men. Among men you see the ninety-and-nine toiling and scraping together a heap of superfluities for one (and this one, too, oftentimes the feeblest and worst of the whole set, a child, a woman, a madman or a fool); getting nothing for themselves all the while but a little of the coarsest of the provision which their own industry produces; looking quietly on while they see the fruits of all their labor spent or spoiled; and if one of the number take or touch a particle of the hoard the others joining against him and hanging him for the theft."—By William L. Chenery in Chicago Tribune.

AMERICA'S CHAMPION MONEY RAISER

Thirty millions have been raised for the Y. M. C. A. during the last decade in campaigns which C. S. Ward has personally directed. Ten years ago he developed what he calls "the intensive method" of raising money; this system was adopted by practically all Y. M. C. A.'s immediately and through the use of his "intensive method" they have raised a total of sixty millions during the last ten years.

His fame has spread afar and an average of a couple of committees a day drifts into the International Y. M. C. A. headquarters in New York to consult this Rosetta Stone of Finance—people who want to raise money for hospitals, churches, newsboys' homes, orphan asylums, universities and every conceivable kind of charity. Ward lifts the embargo on the secrets that he has discovered and they go away prepared to raise money efficiently. Recently Father Edward F. Garesche, S. J., editor of The Queen's Work, asked Mr. Ward for suggestions on how to raise funds for the Catholic Young Men's Christian association. The Young Men's Hebrew association sought his instruction before launching their financial campaign.

"I would leave this work immediately," said Mr. Ward, "if I thought I was merely raising money. It is raising men that appeals to me."—Dale Carnagey in World Outlook.

HERALD ADS PAY

The golden stream of dollars now flowing to Florida in return for her surpassing oranges and grapefruit shows demand for these fruits is increasing faster than supply.

The grower of good fruits, properly produced, packed and marketed, has an assured source of income. Now is the time to become a citrus grower, while lands adapted for the purpose are obtainable at low prices.

Grow Oranges and Grapefruit In Pasco County Highlands

Pasco County is in heart of Florida citrus belt. Staple crops do well here, and money may be made from them while groves are coming into bearing. Fine livestock country, ideal for dairying.

Farms, ready to cultivate, 40 acres and up, fenced and partly cleared, with new house, barn and well, fresh cow, pigs, chickens. Prices give buyers benefit of value increases they help create.

These farms prepared by business men of Dade City, county seat, to build up community; sold by Seaboard Railway to increase its tonnage. Railroad's crop experts help settlers succeed.

Visit Seaboard Ready Farms While in Florida This Winter

Florida is a great State. Every section has its advantages and properly is boosted by its people. Good land in any part of the State bought at fair prices will prove to be a profitable investment.

The Seaboard Air Line Railway serves the heart of Florida and is extending its lines and service in advance of the progress of the State, in line with its general policy of leading development.

The Seaboard reaches many desirable portions of this commonwealth of opportunity, but none of them excel the Pasco County Highlands, selected by the general development department as the center of its activities for this season, in recognition of the way in which the citizens of the community have shown their faith by their works—have made the expression of their boosting spirit a means whereby newcomers are assured success and happiness.

See the Pasco County Highlands and these ready-to-cultivate farms this winter—see them before all of them have been bought because of the wonderful investment values they offer. In coming years the Seaboard's development department will introduce Florida's visitors to other portions of the State well worth their while, but never will it be able to offer greater values than these.

WOMEN IN THE NEWS

What lovely American throat will Ann Boleyn's necklace adorn? This ornament, made of diamonds and valued in cold cash at $150,000, but made invaluable by the warm perfume of romance and history which clings to it, has been disposed of by the family who had owned it for more than 125 years, and the new owner, one of the greatest dealers in precious stones in Europe, will soon send it to New York, the chief gem market of the world. The necklace, according to tradition, was a gift of King Henry VIII to Ann during his brief infatuation for her. Another and more tragic note of romance attaches to the coming of the necklace because the great English family which reluctantly parts with it does so because of the war, which with its increasing taxations is more and more straining the princely fortunes of Britain's autocracy.

The women's fight for ballot equality in North Dakota stormed an important trench with the passing by their legislature recently of two suffrage bills, both of which have been signed by Governor Lynn J. Frazier, and of which the first, providing for limited suffrage on the plan of several eastern states, will become effective July 1 next. The second bill signed is an amendment for full suffrage rights, and it must be passed by the 1919 legislature and approved by the people in 1920 before becoming effective.

In his relentless and world-famous search for educational efficiency, the German Herr Professor has apparently no points to give to Miss Elizabeth Hall, an assistant district superintendent in the Minneapolis schools. Having to talk informally to groups of teachers, Miss Hall had a stenogarpher record every word she said, and then criticised herself "as others heard her." She tells, modestly, that the first typewritten report of her own talk was a "severe shock. She found, which is more than ever happens to most famous orators, that she had been too long in getting started, had spent too much time talking about one thing and not long enough about another, etc etc. The result of Miss Hall's severe self-examination has been the establishment of a similar plan for the teachers in her district, who have adopted the stenographic report as a means of judging of their own efficiency in conducting their classes.

Mme. Nellie Melba, the famous songbird, is now living in semi-retirement in the suburbs of Melbourne, Australia, her native city, and for which she coined the 'Melba" she was to make such a conspicuous word in the world of music. She has become the master spirit of the Albert Street Conservatory of Melbourne, where she teaches for two whole days in the week. Mme. Melba will celebrate this year the 30th anniversary of her debut in opera, which was made October 15, 1887 at Brussels as Gilda in Rigolette. An interesting story about her first appearance as a singer in public, which was at a concert in Melbourne, has it that there were only half a dozen people at that concert because her father, a strict Scotch Presbyterian to whom all things of the stage were evil and who fiercely opposed her becoming a singer, had bought out the house and burnt the tickets.

Miss Dolly Wilson, a Minneapolis waitress and factory worker, has been left $5,000 by George Strebel, an invalid and recluse aged 62 years, whom she befriended in his hour of need without knowing he had a cent. For months she thought the will, which was written on a piece of wrapping paper and made out to "Dolly the girl who has been kind to me," was merely a joke, but attorneys now pronounce the instrument sound because it was witnessed by other lodgers and represented the man's wishes. The old man did not even know the last name of the girl who cheered him up and tried to make him a little more comfortable in his supposed poverty, and the will, which he had pinned to the wall of his lonely room, was considered a joke and a whim of the old man by herself and everybody. Strebel had the money deposited in Minneapolis banks. Miss Wilson has worked hard for 17 years in restaurants and factories. With the money she will go back to her father on his farm at Bland, Mo.

Wishing to have a live subject to work with, girl students of the domestic science department of the Appleton, Wisconsin, high school have adopted a two-months-old baby from a poor family, and feed and dress the infant according to the latest in approved scientific methods of "child culture."

Mrs. Waldo Pierce of New York, a young woman aviator to whom Major General Leonard Wood has granated permission to fly at Governors Island, would like to qualify as the first woman aviator in the American army. A plan for probationary enrollment of women aviators in the Army Aviation Reserve Corps for such service, back of the fighting line, as watching for enemy aircraft and submarine mines, in the guarding of cities and harbors, is now under consideration at Washington by the Aviation Board of Engineers in the war department. Mrs. Pierce, who has been in Washington in advocacy of the plan, holds a pilot's license and intends to go to France, where her husband is already doing ambulance service, to take military aviation.

Lady Jellicoe, wife of Admiral Jellicoe, first sea lord of the British admiralty, is a daughter of the late Sir Charles Cayzer, shipping magnate, who died recently leaving nearly $10,000,000 in personal property in addition to six landed estates in various parts of Great Britain. She was married in 1902 to the famous seaman, who had then just completed three years of service in China as commander of a naval brigade. The Jellicoes have four children, all girls.

Mme. Yvette Guilbert, the celebrated French diseuse, who is in America laying the foundation of a school of diction, predicts that the American actress of the future must be a woman of high general culture to succeed in her art. So far, the American actress has been learning to act while she is acting, but the time will soon come when more critical standards wil ldemand for her initial perparation in a college created specially for her benefit, as well as a knowledge of arts and letters giving her perforce a more intelligent conception of the plays she is called to interpret. The influence of the movies, which will never demand such cultural standards, far from militating against this, will work to that end because of the rivalry between screen and stage. Greater and greater superiority will be exacted of the legitimate actress if she wishes to keep her place in the sun at all.

Little Fraulein von Brincken of San Francisco, daughter of Lieutenant G. W. von Bricken, military attache of the Germaan consulate in the California city, lately convicted of complicity in munition plots, bears her father's coat-of-arms sketched in indelible ink on her tiny wrist, placed there by him the day after her birth. Lieutenant von Bricken, visiting the hospital where the little lady was born ten days ago, was seized with panic at the sight of numerous other infants in the hospital nursery and fearing a possible substitution of another baby for his, called for pen and ink and sketched on the diminutive arm the "proof of long descent," which will now mark her for life. The baby's mother was Miss Milo Abercrombie, of a well-known San Francisco family.

For the purpose of providing facilities where women may learn to be of help in time of war, the second annual encampment of the National Service school will be opened at Chevy Chase, Md., near the national capital, April 16. The camp will be conducted by the women's section of the Navy League, as was last year's camp, which attracted national attention and was imitated in several other sections of the country. The camps taught the students some military drill, sewing, first aid, wireless, visual signalling, telcegraphy, cooking and other things fitting thtm to help in time of war, the courses being directed by experts in the several lines and Red Cross nurses. Mrs. George Dewey, wife of the late admiral, and president of the women's section of the Navy League; Mrs. Hugh L. Scott, wife of the chief of staff of the U. S. army; Mrs. George Barnett, wife of the commandant of the U. S. Marine Corps, and other well known women are at the head of this patriotic undertaking.

Miss Jeanette Rankin, congressman-elect at large from Montana, will speak at Carnegie Hall, New York, on the night of March 2, when she will discuss her legislative policies. She will also speak the same week at the annual convention of the congressioinal union at Washington, which will be held from March 1 to March 4, inclusive. In both cities Miss Rankin will be given elaborate welcome by the suffragists.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE

Except for a Few Little Freckles.

"Except for a few little freckles, North Dakota is now white on the map." So runs the good word from the tireless workers of the Votes for Women League of North Dakota. Governor Frazier signed the presidential suffrage bill January twenty-third. It goes into effect July 1st, 1917.

This means a new suffrage map of the United States. Suffragists will kindly add 70,837 square miles of good United States ground to the 1,796,213 square miles over which the suffrage flag already waves. They will also add five more electoral votes. They will also, add a population of 636,213 alert and elastic northwesterns who are not likely to keep their women out of full suffrage very much longer.

Presidential Suffrage Tally By States.

North Dakota's early and decisive victory has given a great forward impulsion to the presidential suffarge campaign. There are eight other states in which a presidential suffrage bill has been introduced. They are: Indiana, Connecticut, Minnesota, Ohio, Rhode Island, New Hampshire, New Jersey and Tennessee. In five southern states suffragsits have taken the initial steps toward presenting presidential suffrage bills. These states are: Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Mississippi and Arkansas; Wisconsin, Iowa and Nebraska also may have presidential suffrage bills introduced. In Tennessee a presidential suffrage bill has already passed the lower house and is on the way to the senate.

If Based on Voting Strength.

Senator Poindexter, of Washington, has introduced in the senate an amendment which provides for striking the word "male" from the second section of the fourteenth amendment. Its effect would be to base representation in the house of representatives and in the electoral college on the voting strength of the respective states.

Taking the vote cast in the suffrage states as a proper basis for representation, because only in those states are American citizens granted full right to representation irrespective of sex, the present house of 435 members would be cut to a house of 247 members. Aside from any question of how soon this basis of representation may actually be adopted, the drastic changes which would result from the acceptance of this plan show the great disparity which exists between the apportionment of the present house and the voters entitled to representation. Sectional influence in the house would be topsy turvied. New England and northern states which deny suffrage to women would be hit as hard as the south. The powers of the suffrage states in the house would be practically doubled. Alabama, which now has 10 votes, would have 2. New York would be reduced from 43 to 22. Ohio would drop from 22 to 15. Texas would have 5 where she now has 18. Massachusetts would come down from 16 to 7, and so on.

The plan is not only the fair plan, but its is already recognized in principle by the constitution of the United States. The republican party has recognized the principle in its readjustment of the apportionment of delegates to its national convention. It is only in the suffrage states that representation is based on the voting strength today.

Anti-Brain Power.

Suffragists cannot, trying their hardest, put out as good suffrage propaganda as the antis can put out, without trying at all. Antis can raise bogeys and annihilate them in one and the same effort. The latest hard and fast suffrage argument is comprenended in an "Analysis of the Woman Vote in 1916," emanating from official anti suffrage sources.

This is the major premies with which the author sets forth: "While woman suffrage cannot be used as a lever to effect the emancipation of women, it may be used as a tool for the enslavement of men."

And this is the way he concludes: "Woman suffrage cannot grant political favor to its friends and woman suffarge cannot effect political favor for its foes."

It's exactly as if you tried to scare little Jimmy by telling him, "If you give your sister half of that apple, she won't eat it, she will just turn around and throw it at you and the other boys." And then scared little sister, by showing that it wouldn't do her any good, even if she did eat it,

UNIVERSITY OF FLORIDA

Noted Entomologist Coming.

Professor W. S. Blatchley, former State Geologist of Indiana, and a noted Entomologist and Naturalist, will address the Florida Entomological society in Science Hall on Monday evening, February 5th, at 7:45 o'clock. The subject presented will be "Bug Hunting as a Pastime."

Professor Blatchley is well known in Florida, having lived several years at Dunedin, where he has a winter home and spends his time collecting and writing. He is the author of many books, among them being the well-known Florida story, "A Nature Wooing at Ormond by the Sea." Other nature stories written by him are "Boulder Reveries" and "Woodland Idyls." His best known scientific works are "Coleoptera of Indiana" and "Rhynocophora of the Eastern United States."

The meeting of the Entomological society will be a public one and all of the university people are invited to attend.

Special Chapel Services.

During the opening week of the first semester, the ministers of Gainesville have been favoring the students with services at the regular chapel time. On Monday, Doctor J. G. Anderson of the First Presbyterian church gave a lecture from the text: "Evil Companions Corrupt Good Morals," pointing out some dangers of student life and outlining the development of strong moral character through the help of good companions. On Tuesday morning, Doctor A. O. Thrower, pastor of the First Methodist church, gave a helpful talk on the parable of the servants handling the talents divided by their master. Pastor Thrower stated that few people have as many as five talents, or abilities, but that the average man, or student, could do good work with two talents. Doctor Thrower gave an urgent appeal to the students to utilize all the talents at their command. On Wednesday morning, Doctor N. B. O'Kelley, pastor of the First Baptist church, gave a very helpful talk and, on Friday morning, Doctor Thrower again gave a short talk at chapel.

President Murphee Appointed as Florida's Representative to National Convention.

Doctor A. A. Murphee, president of the state university, has been appointed by Governor Sidney J. Catts to represent the state of Florida at the annual convention of the National society for the promotion of industrial education to be held in Indianapolis, February 21, 22, 23, 24, 1917.

Mission Study Class.

Very early in the coming semester, the association mission on study classes will be started, and subjects of greatest importance to all students will be discussed; live topics that no citizen, or prospective citizen can afford to miss, subjects that are vital to us today. The New Era in Asia; Present Forces in Negro Progress; The Challenge of the Country, a study of country life opportunity.

Flint Chemical Society.

A fine program was enjoyed by the members of the Chemical society last Thursday evening.

The society had a brief lesson in computing formulas for fertilizers. Mr. F. F. Halma spoke on this subject and explained the methods generally used. Mr. Babcock followed Mr. Halma's talk with several articles of current interest dealing with the fertilizer industry.

Athletics.

Baseball season opened yesterday with a squad of over thirty men who are trying out for the team and among them are seven or eight good pitchers and as many promising catchers. This is the first season, for years, that Florida has had prospects for such a battery. Coach Wicker assures the university that the team will be the best in the history of Florida athletics. The first games are scheduled with Columbia college at Lake City on the sixteenth and seventeenth.

Coach Stanley has, without doubt, the best working basketball team this year that has ever been organized on the campus.

Now that the mid-term examinations are over, preparations for the tennis tournament will soon begin.

Experiment Station.

C. K. McQuarrie, state agent, addressed a Chautauqua audience at Green Cove Springs last Tuesday on the subject: "Safe Farming."

H. S. McLendon, district agent for home co-operation demonstration work was in Ruskin, January, 31, where he addressed a meeting of the Civic league.

P. H. Rolfs, director, and J. M. Scott, animal industrialist, returned Wednesday from south central Florida, where they had been in company with several representatives of the United States department of agriculture, and others, to examine the range conditions.

C. K. McQuarrie, state agent, and H. S. McLendon, district agent, will spend two days at the Tampa fair next week. Mr. McQuarrie will be in conference with the county commissioners of Osceola county at Kissimmee February 5.

C. D. Sherbakoff, associate plant pathologist, returned Sunday from the southern counties of Florida where he had spent a week investigating trucking diseases.

W. L. Floyd, plant physiologist, spent last week in Pinellas county looking after his citrus experiments.

E. S. Pace, district agent of farm demonstration work, is concluding meetings this week at Mayo, Live Oak, and Madison, Florida.

Professor S. S. Walker Goes to Fruit Produce Work.

Professor Seth S. Walker, assistant chemist to the experiment station, has submitted his resignation to take effect about the middle of February in order that he may accept a position as chemist for the Florida Fruit Products company with headquarters at Haines City, Florida. His new work will embrace standardizing the present methods of making grapefruit juice and other by-products of the citrus industry, and the developing of such new products as may be found advisable.

Professor Walker took his master's degree at the University of Chicago in 1909. Since his graduation he has worked in the department of chemistry of Purdue university. He has also worked for a rubber company in Indiana. He began work with the Florida Experiment station in 1912 and his work along the line of the analysis of citrus fruits has attracted considerable attention in Florida and other states.

The university is very sorry to lose Professor Walker but realizes that his new work is a large field and will eventually help to advance one of the great industries of the state of Florida.

State Plant Board.

Wilmon Newell, plant commissioner, who has been touring the state in the interest of the State Plant board and the Federal bureal of plant Industry has returned to Gainesville.

Doctor J. H. Montgomery and wife of Miami are spending a few days in Gainesville. Doctor Montgomery is engaged by the State Plant board as grove supervisor.

WOMEN SUFFRAGE

and it wouldn't do Jimmy any harm even if she did throw it at him,—she never could hit him, because her muscles were weak and her collar bone was different!

The figures on women voters in the analysis are challenged on many sides as inaccurate. But why sohuld suffragists be jarred by anti-suffrage figures, when anti-suffrage logic is so shock-absorbing?

Constitutional Amendment Bills.

An amendment to the state constitution whereby women would get full suffrage has been introduced in eleven state legislatures, during January, 1917. The states are Arkansas, Connecticut, Illinois, Indiana, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Missouri, North Dakota, New York, South Dakota and South Carolina. In some states both limited, i. e., presidential suffrage and full suffrage bills have been introduced.

DIXIE HIGHWAY TRACT

To those residing permanently in Miami and to tourists here for the season

J. A. Gates & Son, have a message.

We have formulated a plan whereby we can greatly reduce the price of real estate to purchasers, cause the business of real estate to be more highly respected, and to be more enjoyable and satisfactory to those engaged in the traffic.

We purpose to sell lots in a tract by employing hired salesmen just as a merchant sells goods in his store by clerks in his employ. Parties visiting our Dixie Highway Tract, now being offered, will be shown over the tract by our salesmen. A tag bearing the lot and block number and price of lot is attached to a stake placed in front of each lot, to be detached by purchaser and presented at office of tract owner, where papers in settlement will be drawn.

We can, we believe, by this method save purchaser 25 per cent or more and complete the transaction most expediciously and satisfactorily.

We especially call attention to location of our Dixie Highway Tract. It adjoins the Charles Deering place on the north and extends from Dixie Highway to Bay View Ave., overlooking the Bay. All inside lots are held at a uniform price of $195 each, corners $300. If in this connection you note the fact that lots in Flander's tract which adjoins the Charles Deering place on the south are held at prices ranging from about $3,000 to $5,000, and are on lower land; you will readily see that lots in Dixie Highway will certainly appreciate rapidly in value with the growth of Miami and that you will make no mistake in buying now. Is it unreasonable to expect an advance of one hundred per cent in values within one year. May we not urge those of our home people thinking to secure a lot while cheap in price and most attractively located to select now. May we not urge tourists seeking a place for building a winter home to visit us; and may we not especially urge builders who want to get a bunch of lots on which to build houses to sell or rent to select now while the selecting is good—the bunches are unbroken.

Dixie Highway Tract has many advantages, such as electric lights, telephones, jitney busses about half hourly, ice, meat, groceries delivered daily, daily mail delivery, high school, churches, literary clubs, fraternities, and other advantages of a happy and cultured community.

ASSAILS WILSON PEACE PLAN

SENATOR WM. E. BORAH

Without making a direct reference to President Wilson's talk to the United States senate, Senator William E. Borah of Idaho made an attack on it at a dinner in Washington. He denounced the principle of an international league as "perfectly vicious, perfectly heinous and indefensible in morals."

THE WOMAN'S CLUB IN INDIA

I went to Bhopal, the Woman-Ruled, with my best Missouri air. There were many things I wanted to be shown about this Kingdom of the Reverse Order of Things Oriental.

A young Indian woman entered my compartment at the Agra station, and I recognized a Purdah Club member, sister-in-law to a ruling chief. We exchanged the usual English formalities, though I was inwardly marveling at the nonchalance with which this charming young daughter of the Indian nobility traveled about publicly with her veil floating down her back instead of over her pretty face. She was perfectly at home.

The Woman's Club of Bhopal was a spacious room adorned by the portraits of English royalty, viceroys and Indian pirnces. Magnificent crystal chandeliers hung over the marble-topped tables on which reposed magazines printed in Urdu. Here, then, was proof positive of the Begam's desire to have her women educated through the channel of the club.

We were received by the club members. What a study in both thriving and reluctant development they were! Some faces bore the age-stamped look of indifference and apathy—these were too old to change; others wore diamonds in their eyes and "took considerable notice." Few of the women were handsome, the majority were somewhat shriveled. The Indian woman begins to age soon after twenty. It was hard to believe that they wielded an enormous influence over their husbands' actions, and yet they are only beginning to fulfill the destiny toward which the enlightenment of education is bringing them. The small hand which has so long rocked India's cradle is needed now to waken the slumberer.

A member of the club came forward and received us with a gracious speech—at least the sound of it was kindly, even in the dreadful Urdu. From her perfect composure, we might have mistaken her for a practiced public speaker. We who are educated in public schools can only guess at the tremendous amount of self-control and self-training which must have gone into the making of that Indian woman's speech before her ruler and her club as well as a naturally critical western audience. Here was strong evidence of the emerging of India's womanhood from behind the swathing folds of the purdah.—Muriel Caswall, in World Outlook.

GOT CAR THAT RAN OVER WIFE

Irate Husband Sues for Damages and Collects a 1910 Model.

Minneapolis. — Samuel Rothenberg won the motor car that struck and injured his wife last fall.

The court gave it to him.

But Samuel Rothenberg can't ride in his car till he buys it from himself and pays himself for it.

And he can't even do that for ten days.

Such is the law of the land, as Rothenberg found out when District Judge Daniel Fish gave him a default judgment against John Doe in what is said to have been the first civil suit Mr. Doe ever lost in the Hennepin county courts.

When a motor car struck and injured Mrs. Rothenberg October 18, the driver got out of the car, tore off the license number and fled. The police seized the machine. Later Rothenberg brought suit again the driver under the name of John Doe, for $650 and attached the car.

He won the suit by default. The car will be sold at public auction. If anybody bids against him, all the better, says Rothenberg, for every bid will increase the amount he will collect on his judgment.

By the way, the car is a 1910 model.

RACING GAME WORKED ON A TAMPA GUEST

Said to Have Lost $10,000 and Alleged Crook Disappears

Tampa, Feb. 3.—The police department is facing another racing game mystery, in which James Criglow of Rock Rapids, Ia., who is believed to have been the victim, or near-victim, of confidence men, has suddenly disappeared after drawing a draft for $10,000 on his bank in Rock Rapids. Jack Criglow, nephew of the missing man, who was sent to Tampa by the bank to investigate the circumstances, after locating his uncle once, has lost all trace of the man. Owing to the caution of the bank officials the draft was not honored, although Criglow had more than that amount on deposit, and Chief of Police Henderson has telegraphed the bank not to honor papers of any kind signed by Criglow.

James Criglow came to Tampa on December 31 and obtained a room at No. 1015½ Franklin steret, where he told several people that he intended to spend the winter here. Nothing occurred to alarm his relatives in Iowa until about ten days ago, when the bank in Rock Rapids at which Criglow carried a considerable amount of money on deposit received a draft through the mail for $10,000. The officials of the bank were well acquainted with their customer and the amount of the draft and the manner in which it was received aroused their suspicions. The draft was mailed through the postoffice at Lakeland with instructions that the $10,000 be sent through a bank at Lakeland. On receipt of this draft the bank at Rock Rapids sent Jack Criglow, a nephew of James Criglow, to Tampa to investigate the case.

Jack Criglow arrived at Lakeland last Saturday but failed to find traces of his uncle. On the following Sunday morning he came to Tampa, and without notifying the Police Department, began a search for his uncle. At noon Sunday he found his man seated on one of the benches on the Court House Square and without indicating his presence to his uncle proceeded to shadow him about town for about two hours. During that time, according to the nephew, the older man did not meet or talk with any one. The nephew shadowed the old man until the latter went to the Miller Hotel at No. 918 Twelfth Street, where Jack Criglow approached his uncle and told him why he had come to Tampa. The old man appeared none too well pleased and told the nephew that the delay in sending the money had probably prevented his cleaning up a considerable sum of money. He at first stated that he had made an investment which necessitated his having $10,000, but when he was finally convinced that his draft would not be honored by the bank he told the younger man that the action of the bank had cost him $10,000, as he was to put up the money with two friends whom he had met, who were spending the winter in Lakeland, to buy an order on the "New Orleans Horse Race Exchange" for $20,000, on which they would net $10,000. James Criglow said that he expected to meet his "friends" at Lakeland on Sunday evening and they were all to return to Tampa Monday morning and take the steamer for New Orleans.

On Sunday evening Jack Criglow with his uncle went to Lakeland, where they stopped at the Bridges Hotel. The nephew left his uncle and went to the telegraph office to wire the bank at Rock Rapids that he had the old man in charge and instructed the bank not to honor drafts of any kind. On the return to the hotel of Jack Criglow, the older man had disappeared, and a thorough search of the town failed to disclose any trace of him. Outgoing trains and autos from Lakeland Sunday night were watched, but nothing was seen of the old man, and James Criglow was advised to come to Tampa and report the matter to the police.

James Criglow discovered Sunday that his uncle's baggage had been shipped by express from Tampa to Lakeland, and that it was still in the express office, where no one had claimed it.

Chief Henderson has issued orders for the police to keep a watch for a man answering the description of James Criglow, but nothing has been heard of the missing man.

Criglow is sixty-three years old, five feet five inches in height, and weighs about 140 pounds. His hair is what is known as iron-gray and he wore a mustache. His nose has a peculiar appearance from having been broken. When last seen he was wearing a gray suit and hat and carried a wicker suitcase with initials "J. C. C." on the end of the case.

GOLDEN EGG GOOSE RIVALED

Kansas Pullets Start New Year With Heavy Laying Streak

It is certainly not the fault of 112 Rhode Island Red pullets belonging to Mrs. W. T. Glanville, who lives east of here, that fresh eggs are so scarce at present. For the week ended January 13 these pullets laid 16½ dozen eggs. From January 13 to 16 they laid 151 eggs.

Mrs. Glanville gathered 51 eggs January 16, which has so far been their best laying record. The pullets have since been maintaining the record they have set since they began laying early in January. They are the best paying investment on the Glanville farm for their value. The eggs have been marketed at from 35 to 42 cents a dozen.

Most of the hens in the country are on their annual winter strike. Mrs. Glanville believes her simple rules in feeding and caring for the flock may aid their desire to lay. The rules: First, for the morning feed a ration of kafir corn only scattered on the ground in the bed, so the chickens have to work for their breakfast by scratching out the seeds. One other feed is given at night, a hot mash of bran and corn chop.

The chickens have all the skimmed milk they care to drink during the day and plenty of fresh water. They are given the liberty of the farm and are out ranging over a large part of it during the day. Aside from these simple rules, Mrs. Ganville has no other regulations. She advises the hatching of early chicks for winter layers. Most of her pullets now making such a good record were hatched early in April.—Cottonwood Falls, Kans. Disp. to the Kansas City State.
